

For your shopping convenience
THE JERUSALEM POST
BOOK DEPT. is open Sun. - Thur.,
 9:00 a.m. - 3:00 p.m.
 Fridays 9:00 a.m. - 1:00 p.m.
 10 Harav Kook St.
 Downtown Jerusalem.
 Tel. 02-241282

THE JERUSALEM POST

Make international connections.
177-100-2727

VOLUME LXIII, NUMBER 19076

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 19, 1995 • ELUL 24, 5755 • II RABIA 24, 1416

NIS 4.20 (EILAT NIS 3.60)

THE JERUSALEM POST
WORLD OF SPORT

Kent takes Sunday League cricket title
it's ALL in the WORLD OF SPORT TODAY

Undercover veterans may face murder charges

FIVE former undercover soldiers are being investigated on suspicion they murdered six Fatah activists in Jabalya a year and a half ago, Channel 2 reported last night.

The incident occurred on March 28, 1994, when a company came under gunfire and grenade attacks twice that day in Jabalya. An order was given to send out undercover soldiers to investigate. At the same time, a group of six armed, masked Fatah activists arrived on the scene. The soldiers thought the six were a group of Hamas terrorists and opened fire, killing all of them.

After the incident the IDF praised the soldiers for their action. At that time, Fatah was to have coordinated the entrance of armed men into the camp, and as such the six were suspected of belonging to Hamas.

Following a complaint from B'tselem, the soldiers were investigated on suspicion of manslaughter, but the army did not find fault with their actions. The five soldiers have since completed their military service. However, a few days ago they were summoned by the Military Police who informed them the investigation had been reopened and they were being investigated on suspicion of murdering the Fatah activists. (Itim)

Austrians decide on compensation to Nazi victims

VIENNA (AP) - Victims of the Nazi era in Austria will receive the equivalent of about $7,000 each from a new Austrian government fund that is belatedly compensating those who suffered, the fund's curators decided yesterday.

Some 200,000 Jews lived in Vienna before Adolf Hitler's troops annexed Austria in March 1938 to the cheers of many Austrians. For decades after the war, Austria emphasized that it was itself the first victim of the Nazis. It was only in 1991 that Chancellor Franz Vranitzky became the first Austrian leader to acknowledge that Austrians were perpetrators, as well as victims of Nazi crimes.

Call and Speak Your Mind
 Every Night
 Sunday - Thursday,
 8:30-9:30 p.m.
 on SHEILA'S SHOW
 Radio 101 FM
Call 02-410848, 410852, 410854
TONIGHT'S GUEST:
Dr. Robert Asch
Sexual Abuse of Children
Radio Jerusalem,
 25 Rehov Shachrai
 Jerusalem 91160, Fax: 02-429222

PM: Agreement could be initialed this week

DAVID MAKOVSKY
 TABA

AN agreement between Israel and the PLO is very unlikely to be signed this week in Washington, but there is hope it will be concluded and initialed, Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin told The Jerusalem Post in an hour-long interview yesterday. (Excerpts will appear in the Rosh Hashana Eve edition.)

At midnight last night, Arafat spokesman Marwan Kanafani told reporters that Israel had submitted a new proposal for "redeployment from Khalil (Hebron)," but refused to say whether the IDF withdrawal would be full or partial.

"We have reason to believe that we are on the right track," said the usually pessimistic Kanafani.

Hebron mayor, B'tselem call for Jewish evacuation of Hebron, Page 2

Both senior US and Egyptian officials phoned negotiators non-stop during the day in a bid to bridge to see where gaps can be narrowed on the issue of Hebron in order to still obtain a signing ceremony in Washington this week.

After consultations with Rabin in Jerusalem, Foreign Minister Shimon Peres met with PLO Chairman Yasser Arafat for a third night of marathon talks here in a bid to bridge the gap on Hebron.

Rabin said he did not want to offend Palestinian sensibilities by referring to the Israeli security presence in Hebron as "overriding." However, he said the IDF would "basically" retain freedom of movement throughout the city.

"We face a problem in Hebron. It is very difficult to explain that because of 415-450 Israelis who live there, we can prevent 120,000 people from behaving like every [Palestinian] city. But this is a fact of life. We have to adjust our security arrangements to let them have civilian responsibility for their own life and, at the same time, make sure that the Cave of Machpela, the area in which Jews live, Kiryat Arba, the main access roads, where there is no bypass, will be under our security," Rabin said.

"There might be certain areas in which there can be local Palestinian police, but the areas that are related to the security of the Israelis in the wider sense, must be in our hands."

Asked whether he could envision joint Palestinian control over the Machpela Cave, Rabin replied, "Basically, it is our responsibility."

Meanwhile, speaking to reporters in Taba, chief Palestinian negotiator Ahmed Qreia indicated that temporary security arrangements can be reached in Hebron, including the stationing of Palestinian police and Israeli troops, but said certain principles must be clear.

"No Palestinian will accept a divided Hebron. It is a Palestinian city... redeployment in the whole city of Hebron must be like all other cities," he said.

Qreia suggested that whether Jewish settlers are evacuated from Hebron is not the issue.

"What exists will exist through the interim period," Rabin said about a possible evacuation of Jewish settlers from Tel Rumeida.

"I cannot speak about separation without reference to the presence of Israelis in the centers

Foreign Minister Shimon Peres and Palestinian Authority Chairman Yasser Arafat take their seats as they prepare to resume negotiations at the Taba Hilton last night. (Reuters) of population in the West Bank and the Gaza Strip. Since I am committed to not moving any settlements during the interim period, I look at separation as a goal to be achieved in the context of a permanent solution - the way that I describe a Palestinian entity not under Israel's rule, next to Israel, and not according to pre-'67 lines."

Rabin said he hopes an extradition agreement reached in this round of talks would be similar to that in the Gaza-Jericho accord, by which Palestinians can be transferred to stand trial in Israel, while Israelis do not stand trial in areas controlled by the Palestinian Authority.

He was candid about the problems of extradition, saying he hopes - but could not be certain - the areas from which the IDF withdraws would not become "cities of refuge" for terrorists.

Rabin said that terrorists who are captured in areas under Palestinian control are the PA's responsibility. But, he added, if a terrorist comes from an area not under PA control and commits a crime, then flees to Palestinian-controlled territory, "that is a different story."

While hoping that Israeli-PA intelligence cooperation will prove successful in foiling terror, he admitted that Israel's capacity to act against terror would be reduced.

"There is no doubt that in the towns from which we redeploy, our capability will be reduced," he said. "The main issue is not information, but the way we react to the information. At the same time, I can say that friction between us and the Palestinians on a daily basis, a weekly basis, will be reduced."

Rabin refused to discuss what would happen if the accord fails. "What we are doing is based upon the assumption that things

(Continued on Page 2)

Zo Artzenu leaders detained, released

HERB KEINON and BILL HUTMAN

THE six Zo Artzenu activists arrested yesterday morning after pre-dawn raids on their homes were released last night, after signing NIS 3,000 guarantees to show up for future police questioning.

Inspector-General Assaf Hefetz said the police would recommend that criminal charges be filed against the leaders of the organization.

Police suspect the Zo Artzenu leaders of organizing illegal demonstrations and incitement, according to Hefetz. He said the demonstrations were dangerous, because they brought large crowds together without the proper organization.

"When proper steps are not taken to ensure emergency crews can arrive to the scene quickly, and that women and children may be stampeded, there can be injuries and even fatalities," Hefetz said.

Detectives with the police serious crimes division arrested the activists, and settlement residents said they were accompanied by dozens of police in riot gear and snipers.

Moshe Feiglin, the leader of Zo Artzenu, said police came to his Karnei Shomron home at 5:30 a.m., searched the premises and carted away papers, computer disks, and his computer, "including the mouse and keyboard."

The police had a search warrant signed by a Petah Tikvah Magistrate's Court judge.

The six men detained in Karnei Shomron were Feiglin, Shmuel Sackett, Dr. Bernie Ehrenreich, Zvi Pearl, and Avraham Levine, and Yehoshua Shani in Kiryat Arba.

The police also went to Beit El, apparently looking for Rabbi Benny Elon, who was not home at the time. Sy Polsky, who lives around the corner from Feiglin, said that at 5:30 about 15 police cars pulled up to the settlement's entrance. "They went into the homes and conducted a systematic search," he said. "No one was told what they were looking for."

According to Feiglin, the police methods show they are trying to "crack something that does not need to be cracked. They don't understand that what is behind this whole thing is not a huge organization, but a few people backed by much of the nation."

Feiglin said the detainees did not cooperate with police. He said they were released, despite refusing a police demand to put down NIS 3,000 in cash.

Power supply unaffected by Zo Artzenu protest

HERB KEINON

THE Israel Electric Corp. reported only a slight increase and drop in electric usage last night, at the appointed times when Zo Artzenu called on supporters to turn the electricity in their homes on and off in unison to express disapproval of the government's peace policies.

Yael Ne'eman, the company's spokesman, said the change could be measured "by a few megawatts." She said no electrical problems were reported.

But Yehoshua Shani, one of the leaders of the organization, said he does not rely on information from the company, which "filters through political channels."

Shani said even a slight change shows that thousands of people were involved. "Former energy minister Moshe Shahal himself said that the main usage is for industrial purposes," Shani said, "and if this is the case, then even a slight increase shows that tens of thousands of people were involved." He said the campaign will be repeated weekly and will "gain momentum."

In Jerusalem's religious Kiryat Moshe neighborhood, electricity went out in a number of apartments in a seven-story building at 7:30 p.m., the hour when Zo Artzenu called for the blackout - but in the neighborhood the change was not noticeable.

Feiglin said he had reports entire settlements turned out their lights.

Police Minister Shahal, meanwhile, ridiculed the action. "We are talking about people who have fantasies, or people who believe in super-human powers, or in people who have some sort of psychological problem and are in need of immediate treatment," he said.

Shahal added, however, that those who participated will not face police action. "What someone does with the electricity in his home is not the business of the police," he told reporters.

Bill Hutman contributed to this report.

Gov't, comptroller oppose 'whistle blowers' bill

MICHAEL YUDELMAN

THE government and state comptroller are blocking legislation protecting those who expose corruption in their work place from being fired, demoted, or deprived of their rights, MKs Hagai Merom and Yossi Katz, who presented a bill to this effect, stated yesterday.

The legislation was initiated three years ago by the Ha'ogen Association, which represents hundreds of people who were fired after exposing corruption at work. Ha'ogen also receives thousands of anonymous complaints of proper conduct from people afraid to identify themselves.

At a press conference yesterday Ha'ogen presented several people who were dismissed after exposing corruption. Even after they appealed to the state comptroller and finally to the High Court of Justice, and after their complaints were found to be valid, their employers refused to take them back, despite the court's recommendation.

Michael Milo, safety adviser to the Health Ministry, was fired when he warned of construction flaws and fire hazards in hospitals, including work conditions in laboratories which endangered workers' lives.

Milo's warnings of a major fire hazard deriving from a construction flaw in the new wing of Shoba Hospital at Tel Hashomer, backed by reports from the fire authorities, were blocked by Health Ministry Director-General Mordechai Shani.

Despite the former director-general's instructions to rehire Milo and investigate the flaws he had exposed, Shani refused to do so, and also refused to let the internal comptroller lodge a complaint with the police.

Milo's appeal to the state comptroller seven months ago remains unanswered.

The State Comptroller's Office was unavailable for response last night.

(Continued on Page 2)

All agree that First International Bank leads

Recent reports penned on the financial prowess of the First International Bank

First International Bank provides and mutual funds top Globes 1994 rating. "Ahead of all other banks, in periods of boom and bust, at both high and low risk" Globes, January 1995

"Ha'aretz" mutual fund survey: "Only one bank managed to outshine the other banks - the First International Bank. A review of the equity-oriented funds shows that their yield was far higher than those of other banks. Indeed, over the past five years, the First International Bank's largest share-oriented mutual fund Mar has provided the highest yield within the mutual fund sector - 217.1% or 26% in annual real terms." Ha'aretz, 2.7.95

"Risk Versus Yield - The First International Bank Leads" "Bank of Israel staff measured each bank's entire range of risks according to the standard deviation of its profitability, over a relatively long period of nine years between 1986 and 1994." "The First International Bank achieved an average profitability of nearly 10% over the past nine years, when it proved the safest investment in the banking system, with a standard deviation of almost zero." Ha'aretz, 16.9.95

A report by Baring Securities of London on the Israeli capital market states: "The First International Bank is innovative and aggressive, strong loan and deposit growth should continue...one of the most profitable banks...with a balanced credit portfolio...FBI is in the best position to weather the forthcoming structural changes in the banking sector." May 1995

A report on the Israeli banking system by Farman and Selz of New York states: "First International Bank is a stand-out versus other international banking comparisons, with operating margins of 38%, net margins of 17-18%, a dividend yield of 4.5%, plus excellent management and a conservative balance sheet and lending policy." January 1995

Bank of Israel staff choose the First International Bank Bank of Israel employees have chosen the First International Bank Group to manage their Menifa provident fund deposits. April 1995

YOU NEED AN INNOVATIVE BANK

B'tselem: Evacuate Hebron's Jews

JON IMMANUEL

B'TSELEM, the Israeli human rights organization focusing on the treatment of Palestinians, yesterday demanded that the 450 settlers in Hebron be evacuated, saying it is impossible to secure Palestinian human rights as long as the Israelis remain there.

B'tselem director Yitzhar Be'er explained that, "Until now, we thought the problem should be dealt with in negotiations between Israel and the Palestinian Authority." But the grave situation dictates only one conclusion, he said.

Deputy director Eitan Felner said B'tselem thinks the kind of security necessary to protect the Hebron settlers makes it "impossible for the Palestinians in Hebron to live in dignity. That is what human rights is about, not going through checkpoints and roadblocks and living in constant fear of settlers who do what they want, because they know there will be no punishment for their violent acts."

Field worker Bassam Eid pointed out that in the center of Hebron, where the settlers live, there are 32 roadblocks and 10 manned checkpoints.

A 33-page report, entitled "Impossible Co-existence," says that since the Machpela Cave massacre in February 1994, the lives of the 100,000 Hebron-area residents had been seriously disrupted, with 50 days of curfew and 40 night curfews, the killing of 26 Palestinians, and violent house searches.

B'tselem field worker Bassam Eid points to a map of the Hebron area, that shows over 30 roadblocks and 11 manned checkpoints, at a Jerusalem press conference yesterday.

Hebron Mayor Mustafa Natshe says the closure of the cashbah, the vegetable market, has cost the municipality more than NIS 1 million in taxes from shopkeepers, who refuse to pay when they cannot use their premises. A Palestinian-run gas station had to close because access to the area was denied to Palestinian vehicles. Of 76 shops along the street where the settlers live, only 27 remained open because of loss of business and fear of merchants.

The Palestinian Authority is currently encouraging former Palestinian residents of the area to return. There are now 1,000 living in Hebron's Old City, where there were 10,000 in 1967.

The B'tselem recommendations go beyond those of the PA itself. Yesterday, Palestinian negotiator Ahmed Qreia (Abu Ala) told reporters in Taba that there is no objection to the settlers in Hebron remaining, as long as they accept the protection of the Palestinian Police.

This solution, however, is not seriously regarded by Israel as an adequate measure to protect the settlers.

However, "any political solution that preserves Jewish settlement in the city and Israeli control over it, wholly or partially, will lead inevitably to additional violations of the human rights of Palestinian residents in Hebron," the B'tselem report said.

B'tselem noted the evacuation of the Jewish residents would have to be done with consideration for their human rights. The group also supports freedom of access to the holy places.

Thorny Hebron belongs in final status talks

COMMENT
JON IMMANUEL

HEBRON has emerged as the intractable problem of the Oslo 2 talks, even surpassing water distribution, since it is an issue which really belongs in the final status talks.

The problem has its roots in the Oslo accords, which treat all settlements the same, and thus afford the settlers in the center of Hebron the same right to IDF protection as other settlers. The difference is that, whereas other settlements were designed not to intrude on the daily lives of Palestinians, the settlement in Hebron was designed to change the character of the city.

It has done so in many ways. The security measures required to protect the 450 settlers have rippled out to affect most of the 100,000 Palestinians in Hebron. The proximity increases friction, which sharpens the already pointed mutual religious antagonism of Jews and Arabs there, leading to the kind of extremism which has seen several Palestinian murders of Jews and Baruch Goldstein's massacre of 29 Muslims at prayer.

This in turn has required broader IDF security measures - at the expense of Palestinians, not settlers - which increased Palestian resentment. In some ways, the situation is the exact reverse of the situation in Jerusalem. In the final status talks, when a permanent peace treaty is to be signed, the Palestinians will be asked to recognize the predominant Jewish character of Jerusalem and accept the continued presence of Israeli security forces in all parts of the city. Difficult as that will be, Jews are the great majority there, and it will be the end of a process when, so the plan goes, everybody will be too used to peace to go to war over Israel's claims.

In Hebron, the settlers must recognize the predominantly Palestinian character of the city and accept the presence of Palestinian Police where they live. The problem is that, because of the assurances that Hebron will fall under Palestinian rule in the interim period, the settlers have to face that situation now, when peace is hardly ripe for the picking.

A solution will be found that will enable Israel and the PA to sign Oslo 2. The problem will be enforcing it in face of great dissatisfaction among Hebron's Palestinians and a sense of siege among Hebron's Jews.

Natshe calls for removal of settlers

HEBRON Mayor Mustafa Natshe yesterday called for the Jewish settlers to be evacuated from Hebron.

"The settlers must be evacuated, because they are the source of the problem," he told Israel Radio in Taba, where he is participating in negotiations about the city.

Meanwhile, Palestinians moved some municipal offices into a building next to a downtown yeshiva yesterday as part of their campaign to reclaim parts of this disputed city.

Jerusalem Post Staff

Six municipal departments - electricity, water, property tax, garbage, and building licenses - were moved from a spacious building on the outskirts of Hebron to a second-floor hall next to the Shavei Hev-ron Yeshiva. Likud MK Ron Nahman said yesterday that his party would open an office in Hebron on October 9.

"Hebron is the city of our forefathers, and we must strengthen the Jewish presence in Hebron," Nahman told AP.

Japan pledges another $200m. in aid to PA

JON IMMANUEL

JAPANESE Prime Minister Tomiichi Murayama met yesterday in Gaza with Palestinian Authority Chairman Yasser Arafat and promised $200 million more in aid and international observers for elections.

Japan, one of the major foreign donors, had pledged $100m. a year for 1994 and 1995, which it has channeled through the United Nations Development Program.

The new amount is to be channeled directly through the PA, according to sources in the PA Planning Ministry. If so, this would indicate growing confidence by the traditionally cautious Japanese in the PA's financial accountability.

In Amman, where Murayama went later, the Japanese promised to help strengthen and widen the Allenby Bridge, Reuters said. Japan's Foreign Ministry spokesman was saying.

Japan has been involved in financing several infrastructure and housing projects in Gaza.

Weizman: Accord can be changed

GREER FAY CASHMAN and news agencies

THERE is room for amendments in the Oslo accords, President Ezer Weizman said yesterday, following a meeting with parents of victims of Arab terror.

Weizman endorsed the opinion of Attorney-General Michael Ben-Yair that the Palestinian Authority is obligated to transfer to Israel two men suspected of the July murders of Ohad Bachrach and Ori Shohar in Wadi Kelt. He pledged to take up the matter with Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin when the two meet tomorrow.

Bilha Bachrach, the mother of Ohad, said the president had been very warm and compassionate and had told them he shares the parents' concerns.

According to her husband, Arye, Weizman said that unless the two men are extradited to stand trial, he would refuse to sign release orders for security prisoners convicted of murder.

'WHISTLE'

(Continued from Page 1) Gidon Shir-Hen, a qualified mechanic who served as a vehicle inspector for the Postal Authority's transportation department, exposed several cases of irregularities and corruption, which he reported to his superiors. After being ignored for months, he turned to the state comptroller. He was fired and subjected to a series of countersuits.

The comptroller finally ruled that his dismissal was unjustified and the Postal Authority must rehire him, but this was never done, he said.

Ha'ogen legal adviser Alexander Spinar said that the association's appeals to the authorities were confronted by "complete obtuseness and red tape. Only the state comptroller can reinstate a worker fired for exposing corruption, but is systematically refraining from doing so, despite court rulings in favor of the workers in question."

Merom noted that in the absence of adequate legislation, the High Court cannot force an employer to take back a worker, even after his complaints are found to be justified.

Merom said the cabinet's rejection of the legislation to protect corruption expositors is based on Finance Minister Avraham Shohat's strong objection.

Shohat was unavailable for comment last night.

Merom and Katz stated that they would present the bill before the end of the Knesset's term and are confident of its passage.

7,000 Palestinians to be trained for election work

VOTER registration classes will start this month for 7,000 Palestinian teachers who will oversee Palestinian elections, the PA announced yesterday.

Under the accord expected to be reached between Israel and the PA, the Palestinian self-rule council will have 82 members. Palestinians will cast one vote for council members and another for the head of the Palestinian Authority.

The Council for a Beautiful Israel mourns the passing of

JACQUELINE MAUS

a devoted friend of its cause, and extends condolences to the family

US not expecting signing ceremony this week

HILLEL KUTTLER

WASHINGTON

hoc liaison committee preceding it on Thursday.

But the administration official disputed that, saying such a scenario would be impossible because the donors meeting is a "secondary event."

"We have got to have the agreement first," he said.

The signing ceremony aside, Congress will take up Middle East matters later this week.

Rep. Benjamin Gilman, chairman of the House International Relations Committee, will hold a hearing tomorrow on the peace process. A House staffer said the hearing would cover all tracks, and not specifically FLO compliance with the Oslo accord, or the recent Arafat tapes.

And on Thursday, the Senate is due to vote on the foreign aid appropriations bill which contains assistance for Israel, Egypt and the Palestinians. The bill, which passed through the appropriations committee last week, also contains a new law authored by Senate Foreign Relations Committee chairman Jesse Helms, stipulating the conditions under which the Palestinians may receive US assistance.

AGREEMENT

(Continued from Page 1)

will go according to the agreement," he said. "I will not elaborate on the means that are still in our hands to cope with the problem if it does not go well."

In general, Rabin urged the public not to expect instant reconciliation with the Palestinians after decades of conflict. "I don't believe by signing diplomatic documents, you can bring to an end the backlog of hatred, suspicion, and bloodshed between the Arab countries, the Palestinians especially, and us. But the diplomatic papers are the door for a new era in which, hopefully by coexistence, we will be able within 10 to 30 years to reduce the effects of the long, bitter conflict between us and the Arab countries, the Arab peoples."

Jordan stops handling property requests

The Jordanian government has ceased dealing with requests by non-Jordanian citizens for the return of land or other property on the West Bank, the newspaper Al-Balad quoted government sources as saying.

CORRECTION

The column "Earthly concerns" in yesterday's paper mistakenly placed the Aral Sea in Siberia. It is in Central Asia, between Kazakhstan and Uzbekistan.

The Parsser Family is sitting shiva at 68 Rehov Hapishgah, Bayit Vegan, Jerusalem and not as published yesterday.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Woman dies after car flips

A woman was killed and three people were moderately to seriously injured when the car in which they were traveling overturned on the Mitzpe Ramon-Eilat road yesterday.

The injured were all helicoptered by the IDF to Soroka Hospital in Beersheba. The woman was declared dead at the scene.

Fatah committee takes over Jenin affairs

A Fatah committee took over the affairs of Jenin yesterday in a festive celebration, following the resignation of the Israeli-appointed mayor some weeks ago.

Walid Abu Mus, a former security prisoner appointed to the position three months ago by Fatah, heads the council composed of all the factions in Jenin, but dominated by Fatah. Jenin was expected to be the first town evacuated by the IDF as part of the yet-to-be-signed Oslo 2 accords. Officially it is still under the civil administration.

Israel-Palestinian peace picnic held

The Israeli-Palestinian Dialogue Group held a picnic for peace yesterday in the village of Kafr a-Dik attended by 57 Israelis, most of them religious, and an equal number of Palestinians from Nablus and Salfit, in addition to the villagers.

The group has held several such meetings, including one in Jerusalem, to promote mutual understanding.

The Palestinians said they welcome peace, but complained that bulldozers from nearby settlements had begun working on their land without an official expropriation order.

Bomb found in Gush Katif

Soldiers discovered a bomb in a Gush Katif training area yesterday afternoon, and detonated it without incident, the Gaza Coast Regional Council reported. The IDF said it was checking the report.

IDF patrol attacked in southern Lebanon

An IDF patrol in southern Lebanon was attacked yesterday evening by Hizbullah machine-gun and RPG fire. There were no injuries or damage. The soldiers returned fire and the attack was stopped.

The Hizbullah gunmen also attacked an SLA outpost in the same area, but caused no injuries or damage.

Telephone Support Service

Emotional support and coping assistance for Cancer patients, their relatives and friends.

Hadassah Medical Organization
The Israel Cancer Association

Professional Support Staff
Tel. 02-247676

Yes, We Came Home

Rachel Araten's vivid and heart-warming account of how the Jews of exile adapted to the tough conditions of Israel in their latter-day Exodus.

Paperback
116pp
NIS 34.00
(includes shipping)

YES, WE CAME HOME

gefeng pg P.O.B. 6066 Jerusalem 51060
Tel. 02-630247 Fax: 02-638423

Listen to Arats 7, 711 1143 AM 105 FM

هذه هي الامم

Illegally built school demolished

ELL HUTMAN

THE Jerusalem Municipality yesterday evicted pupils and teachers from an Arab nursery school in the Umm Tuba neighborhood and then demolished the building, because it was built without a permit.

The demolition followed a two-hour standoff, during which some 35 children and teachers refused to leave the makeshift building.

"It was inhumane," said Naimi Abu Tair, one of the parents who helped set up the school for three- to five-year-olds, the first of its kind in the neighborhood. "All we wanted was a place for our young children to learn."

A city spokesman said the building was not occupied until Sunday, when residents heard that it was slated for demolition. Abu Tair said it had been in use since the beginning of the school year.

The structure consisted of three large freight containers linked together. It was built on land donated by a resident.

Abu Tair admitted the nursery school was built without a permit. "We didn't think we needed a permit to build a temporary structure," he said.

The municipal spokesman said the city provides adequate educational facilities for the community, and there was no justification for allowing the illegal structure to stand.

Reuma Weizman (right) and Ruth Dayan, daughters of pioneer Merhavia educator Rachel Schwartz, yesterday planted the first trees in a memorial forest bearing her name in Neveh Ilan. Schwartz died in February 1994 at age 96. The 10,000 trees of the Rachel Schwartz Forest are to be planted by various women's organizations. (Flash 90)

Court rules against lawyer switch

RAINE MARCUS

MIRIAM Weissman, 74, accused of murdering her 33-year-old daughter Natalie last December, asked Tel Aviv District Court yesterday for permission to fire her lawyer and be represented by her husband's attorney.

Weissman and her husband Michael, 72, are charged with suffocating Natalie in her sleep. The court originally appointed Eyal Shomroni-Cohen to represent the couple, but as the trial progressed he withdrew as Miriam Weissman's lawyer, citing the possibility of a conflict of interests.

Police suspect Miriam suffocated Natalie, while her husband helped cover up the incident.

Yesterday, Miriam Weissman again asked the court to appoint Shomroni-Cohen to represent her, but three judges ruled this would be a conflict of interests.

Toxicologist Dr. Shlomo Almog appeared as a prosecution witness yesterday and testified that the amount of drugs found in the victim's body could have been fatal. The Weissmans have argued that their daughter died from a drug overdose.

Natalie Weissman's 10-year-old daughter also appeared as a prosecution witness, despite attempts by the National Council for the Child to prevent her appearance.

"There is no need to explain what this girl will experience," the NCC wrote Justice Minister David Liba'i. "Her mother was murdered, her grandmother is on remand, and she is under care with no one close to her - and she will be asked to relive terrible deeds and difficult traumas."

Her testimony was heard behind closed doors.

Israel and Russia sign medical agreement

JUDY SIEGEL

ISRAEL and Russia yesterday signed a medical cooperation agreement, which will allow the exchange of information and medical specialists as well as joint projects in medical administration.

The accord was signed in Jerusalem by Russian health minister Eduard Nizae, one of 25 health ministers and delegates from a total of 50 countries attending the 45th annual meeting of the European section of the World Health Organization (WHO).

Nizae expressed much interest in the implementation of the new national health insurance system and asked how Israel copes with the rising costs of pharmaceuticals. Health Minister Ephraim Sneh agreed to send experts in communicable diseases to Russia when his counterpart asked for help in combating measles and tetanus.

WHO Director-General Dr. Hiroshi Nakajima said his organization was able to meet in Jerusalem because it was a regional meeting; the UN does not currently allow full international meetings to be held here. But the Japanese-born physician said he hopes this policy will change with the coming of peace to the region.

Regarding the WHO's veteran campaign of "Health For All in the Year 2000," Nakajima said rates of infant mortality are going down and expanded vaccination programs are leading to the eradication of some diseases, but that health in some regions - including Eastern Europe - is actually declining because of political instability, pollution, and aging.

WHO Director-General Dr. Hiroshi Nakajima. (Avi Hayoun)

The week-long meetings began with a festive event at Hatot Hayotzer opposite David's Citadel. Foreign Minister Shimon Peres was unable to attend because of continuing meetings with the Palestinians at Taba, but his written address, delivered by Pnina Herzog of the Health Ministry, stressed the need for regional cooperation in efforts directed to public welfare rather than warfare. Sneh and Jerusalem Mayor Ehud Olmert also greeted the delegates.

Rabbis nix computer for calculating sex times

LEADING haredi rabbis have forbidden the use of a computer to calculate when a woman's period is expected and when they must thus abstain from sex. Arye Wexler, secretary of a Bnei Brak rabbinical court, said yesterday.

He said several leading rabbis last week had banned the use of an increasingly popular handheld device known as the "purity computer," for fear it may lead people to rely on computers to make halachic rulings in other areas, rather than to consult with rabbis.

The invention helps religious couples navigate a restriction in Jewish law against sex during the period from 12 hours before menstruation is expected to seven days after it ends.

The computer - actually a calculator pre-programmed for this purpose - uses information entered by the woman about her last menstrual cycle to calculate when the woman's period is expected and when the couple should thus begin abstaining from sex. Many couples turn to rabbis for help with the calculation, though it is possible to make it on one's own.

Rabbi Yosef Shalom Eliashiv, considered the current leading authority on Jewish law, warned in a letter to the haredi daily Yated Ne'eman that the "purity computer" might spark a technological incursion into other areas where rabbis traditionally held sway.

"Everyone must go to the home of his rabbi, put his question and abide by the answer," wrote Eliashiv.

In another letter published by the paper, Rabbi Eliezer Yehuda Waldenberg warned the manufacturers against further distribution of the device, "lest they dare to tread on holy ground [and] turn computers into authorities on Jewish law." (AP)

Vanunu to appear before High Court

MORDECHAI Vanunu is to appear soon before the High Court of Justice to discuss his petition against Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and security personnel. Israel Radio reported yesterday. The contents of the petition are banned from publication. Vanunu will represent himself in court.

Meanwhile, the British Movement to Free Vanunu yesterday held a press conference in Jerusalem at which it was argued that he has suffered psychological damage because of his imprisonment.

The movement announced that Vanunu is planning a hunger strike to mark his alleged kidnapping from Italy by Israeli agents nine years ago. Vanunu will begin his hunger strike on September 30, the date he says he was kidnapped, said Rami Heilbron, a member of the group. (Itm)

Two remanded for gang rape

Suspects allegedly filmed assaults over 3-week period

RAINE MARCUS

A MAN suspected of taking part in the alleged repeated gang rape of two 14-year old girls videotaped the rapes, police said yesterday at a hearing in Rehovot Magistrate's Court. The man, 19, and a youth, 14, were remanded for seven and six days respectively.

Following complaints by the girls and the arrest of the two, police seized eight videotape cassettes allegedly showing the repeated rapes and a camcorder at the man's home.

The case surfaced when one of the girls told her parents she had been raped, and they informed police.

On Sunday night, the two girls told police that for 20 consecutive days they had been raped by several youths and one man at the man's apartment in the city. They said the events were videotaped by the man.

The younger suspect reportedly confessed, telling police he thought only one of the girls had been filmed.

Police said the girls had agreed to go to the man's home after "pressure was put on them" and because they knew some of the youths.

Police are still seeking three other youths who allegedly took part in the rapes. The victims could only identify them by their nicknames.

NEWS IN BRIEF

AKUM awards literary prizes

AKUM has awarded its top literary prizes to author Shulamit Cohen-Assif and author/lyricist Didi Manussi. Cohen-Assif and Manussi each won the NIS 20,000 Judges Prize for life achievement in the field of, respectively, children's literature and light reading/lyrics. The prestigious NIS 12,500 Ashman Prize went to Reuven Meran for his book Turtle Soup for Breakfast. Other prize winners were Rivka Raz for Cafe Bore and Tamar Bergman for Old Wives Tales. (Helen Kaye)

25 tons of unfit corn destroyed

Twenty-five tons of corn were destroyed Sunday by Health Ministry inspectors who feared the crop had been irrigated with sewage water.

The corn was to be marketed from the Pri Hagalit factory in Hatot Hagalit, although it had come from a kibbutz in the south. The inspectors ordered it thrown into a trash compactor and doused with kerosene. Some 10 tons of the destroyed corn had already been packaged for shipping. (Itm)

Atlit man indicted for murdering wife

Ya'acov Lamrovitz, 33, of Atlit was charged in Haifa District Court yesterday with the murder of his wife. According to the indictment, he shot his wife Rahel six times in the head at point-blank range with his licensed pistol on August 31. The couple had been quarreling, and Lamrovitz had often been violent toward his wife. The couple was in divorce proceedings.

Lamrovitz had previously been hospitalized in the Tirat Carmel Mental Hospital, and the court ordered him examined to see whether he is fit to stand trial. The initial psychiatric report has found him psychotic and recommended further hospitalization. (Itm)

Three stabbed in high school brawl

Three teenagers suffered stab wounds during a brawl that broke out yesterday at the Ne'urim boarding school in Netanya. One of the three was moderately-to-seriously wounded in the abdomen and underwent surgery at Hillel Yaffe Hospital in Hadera. The other two were treated and released. The brawl was apparently caused by a dispute over the use of a bench. (Itm)

TAU students rap Egypt's no-show at Clean-Up Day

THE Tel Aviv University Student Union yesterday condemned the unannounced cancellation by Cairo University students on Sunday of their scheduled participation in Gulf Clean-Up Day.

A delegation of 20 TAU students had waited at the Taba border on Sunday for a reciprocal delegation to arrive from Cairo University. The Israelis were to go to Sharm el-Sheikh to meet with another Cairo University group.

"We are very disappointed and perplexed at the sudden cancellation and will demand explanations and clarifications," said student union chairman Guy Cohen. (Rachel Neiman)

Israeli-Palestinian crime rings busted

TWO Israelis, one a former policeman, were arrested recently in connection with a Palestinian-Israeli car-theft ring, police said.

The two, who confessed, incriminated two Palestinians from Shuweika, near Tulkarm, who have also been detained, the police spokesman said.

Meanwhile, Samaria District detectives have detained five Palestinians and one Israeli in connection with a wave of recent burglaries in the Barkan industrial zone. (Bill Hutman)

BIBLE STORIES Vol. 1

Bible stories come to life, in this enjoyable and latest release of Scopus Films. Written by Meir Shalev, and with the original music score by Uzi Asner, the first volume tells the stories of the Creation, the Tree of Knowledge, Noah's Ark and the Tower of Babel. Children and parents alike will enjoy every minute and every story - it is full of charm, humor, intelligence and unforgettable images. In English, 35 min. JP Price: NIS 49.00 Inc. VAT, pp&h. (NTSC or PAL)

To: The JP Video Collection, POB 81, Jerusalem 91000 02-241282

Please send me Bible Stories Vol. 1 System required: ☐ VHS-PAL ☐ VHS-NTSC (N. AMERICA)

Enclosed is my check for NIS 49.00 per copy, payable to The Jerusalem Post, or credit card details: ☐ VISA ☐ ISRAELCARD ☐ DINERS

CC No. _____ Exp. _____

Name _____

Address _____

City _____ Code _____ Tel. (day) _____

ID No. _____ Signature _____

For overseas airmail, please add NIS 12.00 per videocassette and list gift recipients' names and addresses separately.

Yeheloma Danzan, graduate of the Kibbutz seminar, fourth-grade homeroom teacher at Gderot school in Asseret

Being a teacher is a challenge.

You work with students, share their excitement and watch them grow and develop next to you. I wish all teachers that they have this great feeling.

A GOOD TEACHER IS A TEACHER FOR LIFE

Ministry of Education, Culture and Sport

1997, 1998, 1999, 2000, 2001, 2002, 2003, 2004, 2005, 2006, 2007, 2008, 2009, 2010, 2011, 2012, 2013, 2014, 2015, 2016, 2017, 2018, 2019, 2020, 2021, 2022, 2023, 2024, 2025, 2026, 2027, 2028, 2029, 2030, 2031, 2032, 2033, 2034, 2035, 2036, 2037, 2038, 2039, 2040, 2041, 2042, 2043, 2044, 2045, 2046, 2047, 2048, 2049, 2050, 2051, 2052, 2053, 2054, 2055, 2056, 2057, 2058, 2059, 2060, 2061, 2062, 2063, 2064, 2065, 2066, 2067, 2068, 2069, 2070, 2071, 2072, 2073, 2074, 2075, 2076, 2077, 2078, 2079, 2080, 2081, 2082, 2083, 2084, 2085, 2086, 2087, 2088, 2089, 2090, 2091, 2092, 2093, 2094, 2095, 2096, 2097, 2098, 2099, 2100, 2101, 2102, 2103, 2104, 2105, 2106, 2107, 2108, 2109, 2110, 2111, 2112, 2113, 2114, 2115, 2116, 2117, 2118, 2119, 2120, 2121, 2122, 2123, 2124, 2125, 2126, 2127, 2128, 2129, 2130, 2131, 2132, 2133, 2134, 2135, 2136, 2137, 2138, 2139, 2140, 2141, 2142, 2143, 2144, 2145, 2146, 2147, 2148, 2149, 2150, 2151, 2152, 2153, 2154, 2155, 2156, 2157, 2158, 2159, 2160, 2161, 2162, 2163, 2164, 2165, 2166, 2167, 2168, 2169, 2170, 2171, 2172, 2173, 2174, 2175, 2176, 2177, 2178, 2179, 2180, 2181, 2182, 2183, 2184, 2185, 2186, 2187, 2188, 2189, 2190, 2191, 2192, 2193, 2194, 2195, 2196, 2197, 2198, 2199, 2200, 2201, 2202, 2203, 2204, 2205, 2206, 2207, 2208, 2209, 2210, 2211, 2212, 2213, 2214, 2215, 2216, 2217, 2218, 2219, 2220, 2221, 2222, 2223, 2224, 2225, 2226, 2227, 2228, 2229, 2230, 2231, 2232, 2233, 2234, 2235, 2236, 2237, 2238, 2239, 2240, 2241, 2242, 2243, 2244, 2245, 2246, 2247, 2248, 2249, 2250, 2251, 2252, 2253, 2254, 2255, 2256, 2257, 2258, 2259, 2260, 2261, 2262, 2263, 2264, 2265, 2266, 2267, 2268, 2269, 2270, 2271, 2272, 2273, 2274, 2275, 2276, 2277, 2278, 2279, 2280, 2281, 2282, 2283, 2284, 2285, 2286, 2287, 2288, 2289, 2290, 2291, 2292, 2293, 2294, 2295, 2296, 2297, 2298, 2299, 2300, 2301, 2302, 2303, 2304, 2305, 2306, 2307, 2308, 2309, 2310, 2311, 2312, 2313, 2314, 2315, 2316, 2317, 2318, 2319, 2320, 2321, 2322, 2323, 2324, 2325, 2326, 2327, 2328, 2329, 2330, 2331, 2332, 2333, 2334, 2335, 2336, 2337, 2338, 2339, 2340, 2341, 2342, 2343, 2344, 2345, 2346, 2347, 2348, 2349, 2350, 2351, 2352, 2353, 2354, 2355, 2356, 2357, 2358, 2359, 2360, 2361, 2362, 2363, 2364, 2365, 2366, 2367, 2368, 2369, 2370, 2371, 2372, 2373, 2374, 2375, 2376, 2377, 2378, 2379, 2380, 2381, 2382, 2383, 2384, 2385, 2386, 2387, 2388, 2389, 2390, 2391, 2392, 2393, 2394, 2395, 2396, 2397, 2398, 2399, 2400, 2401, 2402, 2403, 2404, 2405, 2406, 2407, 2408, 2409, 2410, 2411, 2412, 2413, 2414, 2415, 2416, 2417, 2418, 2419, 2420, 2421, 2422, 2423, 2424, 2425, 2426, 2427, 2428, 2429, 2430, 2431, 2432, 2433, 2434, 2435, 2436, 2437, 2438, 2439, 2440, 2441, 2442, 2443, 2444, 2445, 2446, 2447, 2448, 2449, 2450, 2451, 2452, 2453, 2454, 2455, 2456, 2457, 2458, 2459, 2460, 2461, 2462, 2463, 2464, 2465, 2466, 2467, 2468, 2469, 2470, 2471, 2472, 2473, 2474, 2475, 2476, 2477, 2478, 2479, 2480, 2481, 2482, 2483, 2484, 2485, 2486, 2487, 2488, 2489, 2490, 2491, 2492, 2493, 2494, 2495, 2496, 2497, 2498, 2499, 2500, 2501, 2502, 2503, 2504, 2505, 2506, 2507, 2508, 2509, 2510, 2511, 2512, 2513, 2514, 2515, 2516, 2517, 2518, 2519, 2520, 2521, 2522, 2523, 2524, 2525, 2526, 2527, 2528, 2529, 2530, 2531, 2532, 2533, 2534, 2535, 2536, 2537, 2538, 2539, 2540, 2541, 2542, 2543, 2544, 2545, 2546, 2547, 2548, 2549, 2550, 2551, 2552, 2553, 2554, 2555, 2556, 2557, 2558, 2559, 2560, 2561, 2562, 2563, 2564, 2565, 2566, 2567, 2568, 2569, 2570, 2571, 2572, 2573, 2574, 2575, 2576, 2577, 2578, 2579, 2580, 2581, 2582, 2583, 2584, 2585, 2586, 2587, 2588, 2589, 2590, 2591, 2592, 2593, 2594, 2595, 2596, 2597, 2598, 2599, 2600, 2601, 2602, 2603, 2604, 2605, 2606, 2607, 2608, 2609, 2610, 2611, 2612, 2613, 2614, 2615, 2616, 2617, 2618, 2619, 2620, 2621, 2622, 2623, 2624, 2625, 2626, 2627, 2628, 2629, 2630, 2631, 2632, 2633, 2634, 2635, 2636, 2637, 2638, 2639, 2640, 2641, 2642, 2643, 2644, 2645, 2646, 2647, 2648, 2649, 2650, 2651, 2652, 2653, 2654, 2655, 2656, 2657, 2658, 2659, 2660, 2661, 2662, 2663, 2664, 2665, 2666, 2667, 2668, 2669, 2670, 2671, 2672, 2673, 2674, 2675, 2676, 2677, 2678, 26

Bangladeshi protesters clash with riot police in Dhaka during a 72-hour strike yesterday. Thousands of opposition activists marched through the streets shouting anti-government slogans in the longest strike in Bangladesh's history, at least 30 people were injured (AP)

UN General Assembly 50th session opens today amid budgetary woes

UNITED NATIONS (AP) - Facing a depleted budget and a dwindling diplomatic role in former Yugoslavia, the UN General Assembly opens its 50th session today.

The General Assembly convenes to elect Diogo Freitas do Amaral, a former Portuguese vice-prime minister and foreign minister, to the largely ceremonial post of president.

More than 100 foreign ministers are expected in town next week when the General Assembly opens three weeks of speeches by members outlining their foreign policy goals.

One highlight of the session will be Pope John Paul II's address to the General Assembly on October 5. The pope last spoke before the assembly in 1979.

The gathering will also be a time of soul-searching about the organization's role - focusing in particular on its mission in Bosnia, where a US peace initiative appears to have overtaken some four years of UN diplomacy.

Ministers are also likely to grapple with UN financial woes. The regular budget was exhausted in mid-August, and the organization has had to borrow millions of dollars from its peacekeeping allotment to keep functioning.

Members owed the UN $850 million in contributions to the regular budget as of August 31. The largest debtor, the United States, which owed $325 million, has repeatedly demanded that the organization streamline operations and slash expenditures.

Countries owed the United Nations another $2.9 billion for peacekeeping and international tribunals.

As part of the demand for UN reforms, Japan and Germany have been pushing for permanent membership in the Security Council, the 15-member body responsible for peacekeeping.

Critics have said the council, dominated by the five major nuclear powers - the United States, Russia, France, China and Britain - should be broadened to reflect current economic realities. Italy wants the council expanded by between eight and 10 seats, but that plan would not add any permanent members.

This week's General Assembly opening may be just a prelude to the October commemoration of the United Nations' 50th anniversary, attended by 100 heads of state.

Officials: Shevardnadze's attackers arrested

TBILISI, Georgia (AP) - A top security official and a powerful warlord's chief aide were accused by the government yesterday of masterminding last month's car-bomb attempt to assassinate Georgian leader Eduard Shevardnadze.

In a dramatic announcement on national television, Georgian authorities also blamed the "terrorist group" for three major political killings. Interior Minister Shota Kviraya and Prosecutor-General Dzhamlet Babishvili said the group's leaders, members and the perpetrators had all been arrested.

They named Deputy Security Minister Teimuraz Khachishvili, 34, as one of the ringleaders, along with Georgy Gelashvili, the head of Georgia's Rescue Corps and top aide to warlord Dzhaba Ioseliani.

Both have confessed to their role, the officials said, adding that Rescue Corps members and lower-ranking security officials were among those arrested.

The names of those who stood behind Kachishvili and Gelashvili will be made known in the next few days," Babishvili said, without elaborating or saying how many were arrested.

The announcement virtually pointed an accusing finger at Shevardnadze's powerful and theatrical rival, Ioseliani.

Gelashvili's so-called Rescue Corps succeeded the warlord's paramilitary Mkhedrioni (Horsemen) organization after it was officially disbanded last May.

Khachishvili, Georgia's interior minister until 1993, also is considered to be close to Ioseliani.

Both were arrested on August 30, the day after the 67-year-old Shevardnadze narrowly escaped death in a blast outside the parliament building in Tbilisi, the Georgian capital.

There were no direct accusations against Ioseliani, 68, in the special television broadcast Monday. But Babishvili, the prosecutor-general, promised to find and expose those who stood behind the political terror group.

Earlier yesterday, rumors spread in Tbilisi that Ioseliani was arrested at the city airport as he attempted to leave for Moscow, the Interfax news agency reported.

Although authorities denied those reports, Ioseliani's whereabouts remained unclear.

UN: Division of Bosnia is almost the same as peace plan

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) - Territorial gains by government and Croat troops in recent days have divided Bosnia nearly in half, which is the design of a US-sponsored peace plan, UN officials said yesterday.

But officials expressed concern that the peace initiative could collapse if troops continue to push toward the northwestern Bosnian Serb stronghold of Banja Luka, choked with up to 100,000 refugees.

Serbian President Slobodan Milosevic, the region's powerbroker and chief peace negotiator for the Bosnian Serbs, called for an immediate cessation of hostilities throughout Bosnia. In a statement issued yesterday, Milosevic said the world should exert its influence on the Bosnian government and the Croats to stop their offensive.

His appeal came after talks with US envoy Richard Holbrooke, who is trying to broker an end to 40 months of war in Bosnia. UN and other sources are worried that if the huge Serb losses continue, Milosevic would have to break off negotiations and send the Serb-led Yugoslav army to reinforce their ethnic brethren in Bosnia.

Lt. Col. Chris Vernon said that the territorial split between forces of the Moslem-Croat federation and the Serbs is now about 50-50 and tilting toward the Bosnian army's favor.

He said the Bosnian army claimed the split was 52 for the federation and 48 for the Serbs, figures he could not immediately confirm.

The rebel Serbs on Sunday received an extra 72-hour reprieve from more NATO air strikes because NATO and UN commanders deemed they had made substantial progress in removing heavy guns from around Sarajevo.

The Serbs did not meet a deadline Sunday night to remove all their guns, but NATO and the United Nations said they had done well enough to gain another three days to finish the job.

Yesterday, UN officials had no confirmation on whether the Serbs were continuing to pull their heavy weapons from a 20 kilometer zone around Sarajevo to avoid further bombing.

Vernon said the Serbs had "made a substantial start" at withdrawing their tanks and big guns and had removed about 160 artillery pieces by Sunday night.

But Lt. Gen. Rupert Smith, the UN commander in Bosnia, was "not yet convinced that total, unimpeded freedom of movement has been achieved around and into Sarajevo," Vernon added.

New York cabbies to learn English?

NEW YORK (AP) - New Yorkers are tired of cab drivers who don't speak English - and don't know where they're going, in any language.

Starting this week, the city's Taxi and Limousine Commission will get tough in testing would-be cabbies. As part of a new screening test for driver school, applicants have to prove they have a working knowledge of city streets as well as its language, New York's Daily News reported yesterday.

The action was a response to increasing passenger complaints about the drivers, 95 percent of whom are immigrants, according to the TLC.

Later this year, cab drivers who've been on the road fewer than five years also will be tested in English and city geography before their licenses are renewed.

And the commission will distribute about 100,000 taxi "report cards" allowing passengers to rate rides based on courtesy, service, attention to safety, communication skills, road knowledge and vehicle condition.

Rome mayor shelves plan to name street after Fascist

ROME (Reuters) - Bowing to pressure from Jewish groups and leftists, Rome's mayor said yesterday that he was shelving indefinitely his controversial plan to name a street after an architect of Italy's Fascist-era antisemitic laws.

The city council last Thursday voted 11-1 in favor of a plan by Mayor Francesco Rutelli to name a street after Giuseppe Bottai, Italy's education minister in Fascist leader Benito Mussolini's World War II dictatorship.

Bottai helped enact 1938 racial laws which ousted Jews from the school system and later from public jobs.

Rutelli, appearing at a news conference with Bottai's son Bruno, told reporters the formal street naming had been postponed.

A joint statement said the decision was taken "to encourage better dialogue and respect between the various cultural, social, political and religious bodies in Rome."

It added that the street would not be named until "a climate of peace and understanding could be guaranteed."

Rutelli, who was elected with support from leftists and environmentalists, said the "unshakable moral opposition" of the Roman Jewish community had been a decisive factor.

A crowd of several hundred people demonstrated against Rutelli's plan on Sunday, with leftist councillors vowing to remove any name plaque once it was installed in the street near the city's Modern Art gallery in the Borghese gardens.

Bruno Zevi, a leading light in Rome's small Jewish community, expressed his delight, and said Rutelli had been impressed by the strength of feeling at a meeting with Jewish community leaders on Sunday night.

WORLD BRIEFS

S. African police search for serial killer

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) - South African police said yesterday that they had found the bodies of eight women believed to have been murdered by a serial killer east of Johannesburg. Police commissioner George Fivaz told reporters the first body was discovered over the weekend by a police reservist hunting rabbits on the outskirts of Boksburg. Police searches uncovered seven more bodies.

Buthelezi threatens to quit

DURBAN, South Africa (AP) - Zulu nationalist leader Mangosuthu Buthelezi has threatened to quit as leader of the Inkatha Freedom Party because of divisions in the party. Buthelezi, the Home Affairs minister in President Nelson Mandela's cabinet, told a weekend rally that a split in Inkatha over whether to negotiate with rival groups or push for full autonomy for the traditional Zulu homeland could force him to step down.

Longest-serving IRA prisoner transferred

BELFAST (AP) - The British government transferred one of the longest-serving IRA convicts from England to a Northern Ireland prison yesterday, a small but significant concession. Belfast man Paul Norney, 37, is one of five IRA Army members imprisoned more than 20 years for trying to kill a police officer in northwest England in July 1975.

Alcohol abuse costs Britain $3 billion

LONDON (Reuters) - Alcohol abuse costs British industry £2 billion ($3.1 billion) a year and one in 20 Britons is addicted to drink, a charity said yesterday.

Alcohol Concern said 8.5 million people were drinking more than the recommended limits, causing absenteeism and poor performance at work, and three million were addicted to alcohol. Britain's population is 58 million.

The report stated that alcohol was involved in 15 percent of traffic deaths, 26 percent of drownings and 39 percent of fire deaths. It said up to 40 percent of child abuse cases were linked to alcohol.

Dahmer cremated, except for brain

MILWAUKEE (AP) - Serial killer Jeffrey Dahmer's remains have been cremated, although his brain was preserved while his parents argue over whether to give it to scientists for study.

His father, Lionel Dahmer, claimed his half of the ashes Sunday, while arrangements were being made for his mother, Joyce Flint, to receive the rest.

Flint wants her son's brain examined to determine whether biological factors influenced his actions. "Jeff always said that, if he could be of any help, he wanted to do whatever he could," Flint told the Milwaukee Journal Sentinel in Sunday's edition.

Simpson trial nearing end, focuses on shoe prints

LOS ANGELES (Reuters) - A key prosecution witness conceded yesterday that parallel lines in blood at the scene where football hero O.J. Simpson's ex-wife and her friend were murdered could have been a shoe print.

But William Bodzak, an FBI specialist in shoe prints, said the footprint was probably left by someone long after the killings. He was called by the prosecution to contradict defense expert Henry Lee, whose testimony suggested there was a second killer.

Lee testified that the parallel lines in blood at the scene were made by a shoe print and defense attorneys suggested it was left by a second killer. The pattern did not correspond to the victims' footwear or to a set of bloody footprints leading away from the crime scene, which were made by size 12 Italian designer shoes.

Bodzak, under cross-examination by defense attorney Barry Scheck, conceded that Lee's conclusion might be correct.

But he said the defense expert had noticed the parallel lines on a photograph of the crime scene taken on June 25, 1994, but they could not be seen in photographs taken on June 13, a day after Nicole Brown Simpson and Ronald Goldman were stabbed to death. He said this suggested they were made after many people had walked around at the crime scene.

In testimony on Friday, Bodzak said the "blood" may actually have been a red stain caused by berries crushed underfoot.

With the case hurtling to an end after nine months of testimony, Bodzak was the last prosecution witness to take the stand in the rebuttal phase of the trial. The defense was due to resume its case following his testimony.

Simpson's attorneys want to bring on Dr. Frederic Whitehurst, an FBI "whistleblower" whose allegations of misconduct could undermine the credibility of FBI crime lab analysts who have testified on DNA blood tests.

Prosecutors say Whitehurst has no relevant testimony to give and will fight to keep him off the witness stand.

Report: Queen Mother bans Camilla from official gatherings

LONDON (AP) - Prince Charles' hopes of easing his mistress into his public life were dashed by his grandmother, a newspaper reported Sunday. Queen Elizabeth the Queen Mother has twice refused Charles' requests to bring Camilla Parker-Bowles to official functions at her residences, the Sunday Express quoted a senior royal adviser as saying.

The Queen Mother does not object to Parker-Bowles personally, but wants to prevent her grandson from divorcing Princess Diana while he is heir to the throne, the newspaper said.

THE ENIGMA OF THE DEAD SEA SCROLLS

Since their discovery in 1947, the Dead Sea scrolls have been shrouded in mystery, intrigue and scandal. This 58 minute home video tells the complete story... unravelling the mysteries and explaining the controversies surrounding the oldest known Biblical texts and writings. Includes interviews and contributions from leading world professors on the subject. Narrative in English. Biblical Productions.

Reg. Price NIS 79.00
JP Price NIS 69.00

To: The JP Video Collection, POB 81,
Jerusalem, 91000, Tel. 02-241282
Please send me The Enigma of the Dead Sea Scrolls.
Enclosed is my Check for NIS 69.00 per tape, payable to The Jerusalem Post, or credit card details:
Please add NIS 12.00 for overseas air mail delivery.
☐ VHS-PAL ☐ VHS-NTSC (N. America)
☐ Visa ☐ Isracard ☐ Diners
Number _____ Exp. _____
Name _____
Address _____
City _____ Code _____
Tel. _____ ID No. _____
Signature _____

Rondebosch Boys High School, Cape Town, S.A.

Long Island, USA; Young Judea; Triplets of Israel; East London, South Africa; just a few of the reunions taking place at The Event. If you want to book a place and time for your home town reunion, telephone Janine Gelley on 09-957725.

It's a give-away! BARGAIN BUS PRICES TO THE EVENT

Location	Departure Point	Time	NIS (rtn)
Jerusalem	Mo'adon Ha'oleh	8:00 a.m.	15
	Binyanei Ha'uma	8:00 a.m.	15
Karmiel	Outside Post Office	8:00 a.m.	15
Nahariya	Bus Station	8:00 a.m.	15
Ashkelon	Opposite Bus Station	8:00 a.m.	15
Ashdod	Bus Station	8:30 a.m.	15
Safed	Yigal Allon Center	7:30 a.m.	15
Beersheba	Bus Station	7:30 a.m.	15
Arad	Bus Station	7:30 a.m.	15
Dimona	Matnass Dimona	7:00 a.m.	15
Haifa	Alongside Bus Station	8:30 a.m.	10
Tel Aviv	Hechal Hatarbut	8:30 a.m.	10
Ra'anana	Yad Lebanim	9:00 a.m.	10
Gush Etzion	Efrat Commerce Center	8:00 a.m.	15
Beit Shemesh + Givat Sharett	Bus Station at the Junction	8:30 a.m.	10

Return time from Wingate will be announced later.

Ticket Hotline: 09-989149/982957

THE JERUSALEM POST

F. DAVID RADLER, Chairman, Board of Directors
YEHUDA LEVY, President & Publisher

Founded in 1932 by GERSHON AGRON

DAVID BAR-ILLAN, Executive Editor
JEFF BARAK, Managing Editor
ALEX ISRAELI, Associate Editor, Copy
NEIL COHEN, Business Editor
DAN ZENBERG, News Editor
DAVID BRINK, Night Editor
SAM ORBAUM, Features Editor
THOMAS O'DWYER, Foreign Editor
JUDY MONTAGU, Op-Ed Editor

AVI GOLAN, Vice President, Marketing & Advertising
PAUL STASZEWSKI, CFA, Vice President, Finance
YOSSI HORIN, Vice President, Production
STANLEY SCHRIAGER, Circulation Manager

EDITORIAL OFFICES AND ADMINISTRATION The Jerusalem Post Building, P.O. Box 81, Ramat Gan, Jerusalem (91000)
Telephone 315566, Telex 26121, Fax 389537. CIRCULATION - 315610, Fax 389017. ADVERTISING - 315608, 315637-40, Fax 388408. TEL AVIV: 5 Rehov Hamazger, P.O. Box 28398 (61283) Telephone 6390333, Fax 6390277. HAIFA: 20 Nardun, Haifa
Hacarmel, Telephone 623166. Published daily, except Sunday, in Jerusalem, Israel by The Jerusalem Post Ltd. Printed by The Jerusalem Post Press in Jerusalem. Registered at the G.P.O. © The Jerusalem Post 1995. Reproduction, or storage in a retrieval system, or any other form, is prohibited without permission. Editors: 1932-1953 GERSHON AGRON, 1953-1974 TED LURIE, 1974-1975 LEA BEN DOR, 1975-1989 ARI RATH and ERWIN FRENKEL, 1990-1992 N. DAVID GROSS

Ethnic cleansing in Hebron

IT'S one thing for Hebron Mayor Mustafa Natshe to say that, unless the city's Jewish residents leave town, there will be no peace. It is quite another for B'tselem, which purports to be a human rights organization, to call on the government to expel them.

Natshe is a typical representative of the real Middle East, not the Middle East envisioned by Foreign Minister Shimon Peres. The notion that in a town he views as strictly Arab there can be Jews living as neighbors rather than "dhimmies" is simply alien to him. He deems their presence anathema, and believes they should be expelled. He may not call it ethnic cleansing, transfer or exile, but neither he nor his townspeople make a secret of their aim to make the town Judean.

Natshe must know, too, that solving conflicts through population transfers is not new to the Middle East: it has been practiced here since before biblical times. But today such policies seem to be tolerated only when they are advocated by Arabs. A parallel suggestion by Jews would be greeted - justifiably - with disgust, derision, and condemnation.

As long as the suggestion is for the expulsion of Arabs, that is, if, say, the inhabitants of a small Arab village caused problems - such as an outbreak of murders, robberies, and thefts - for a neighboring Jewish town, B'tselem would never dream of suggesting that the villagers should be expelled. But even though the organization maintains it is not political, it now recommends a political solution to what it deems to be a human rights problem. The Jews in Hebron, says B'tselem, cause the Arab population hardship, therefore they must go.

In an interview with the Independent Media Review and Analysis, B'tselem's deputy director Eitan Felner said yesterday, "Any solution other than removing the Jews will inevitably lead to a violation of human rights." At a press conference the group claimed, "Coexistence between the two populations in the town is impossible. There is no escaping the evacuation of the settlers." When it is Jews who are affected, B'tselem does not consider uprooting people from their homes and forcing them to live elsewhere a violation of their human rights.

Like others who advocate the expulsion of Hebron's Jews, B'tselem claims that they are living in the town illegally. Nothing can be more offensive to the law and common sense. Not only are most of the Hebron Jewish residents living in homes owned by Jews who were slaughtered or expelled in the Arab pogrom of 1929; they, like all Jewish residents of Judea and Samaria, have a perfect right to reside there under international law.

A 1980 Israeli government paper on Hebron had this to say: "The right of Jews to return to their property in Hebron, and indeed to the entire region of Judea and Samaria, is based on the following considerations:

"A) This area was an integral portion of the one-time British Mandate of Palestine, in which the Jews had full rights of settlement, and, until 1947 owned considerable tracts of property. The entire area of Palestine was designated as a national home for the Jewish people and the illegal annexation of Judea and Samaria by the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan cannot negate this right.

"B) International law does not prevent persons wishing to return to their property to do so, nor does it prevent the settlement of government land or property which does not involve the displacement of existing population."

Even more pertinent is that the Jewish community of Hebron represents the continuity of Jewish habitation in the Land of Israel since biblical times. Apart from short periods following expulsions by Romans and the Crusaders, Jews always lived in the city, until an Arab mob slaughtered them. To suggest now that they be expelled again is to hand that mob another victory.

Nor is Hebron just another Judean town. It has a unique place in Jewish history. It is in Hebron that Abraham, according to the Bible, was promised that the Land of Israel would belong to the Jewish people, and it is there that the patriarchs and matriarchs are buried. King David first established his kingdom in Hebron, and he ruled there for seven years before moving to Jerusalem. It was in Hebron, too, that Bar-Kochba set up his headquarters in his war against the Romans. To suggest that the city be "free of Jews" is to mock the very essence of Zionism.

If anything, Hebron should become a test of the ability of Jews and Arabs to coexist. The Jews are not as small a minority as the numbers commonly mentioned would indicate. There are more than 6,000 Jews living in Kiryat Arba, a suburb of Hebron, and the number of Arabs in the town is closer to 80,000 than to the inflated figures cited by politicians. It should not be any more difficult for a town in which 90 percent of the population is Arab to live with a Jewish minority than it is for cities in Israel in which the numbers are reversed.

There are those in the PLO who have suggested precisely that, provided that the city government and security are in Palestinian hands. That both Israelis and Palestinians know that such an arrangement would subject the Jewish population to murder and mayhem is a telling symptom of what's wrong with the Oslo agreement.

YOUR NEW YEAR
GIFT, EHUD

JERUSALEM
MUNICIPALITY

Unclear stand

MARILYN HENRY

WHEN anyone in the Jewish community wants to get the word out, the first call is to the advertising office of The New York Times. But those with the financial benefactors behind the ads may not always have the political backers to support their claims.

The latest ad, sponsored by an ad hoc group of American Jewish organizations, appeared in Sunday's Times.

"Mr. Prime Minister," it says,

"As you continue the arduous journey to peace, know that American Jews stand with the Government of Israel."

Yes, but...

After agreeing with a general statement about the peace process, it is not clear where the majority of Jews stand, making these tough times for the politicians who appeal to US Jews, and for the organizations that say they speak in their name.

Until a few years ago, it was fairly easy to please the Jews. Now, said one US political observer, "Everyone wants to pander to the Jews, but they don't know what the Jews want."

That's a pessimist's view. An optimist, on the other hand, can argue that a public figure can take almost any position on the peace process and say with assurance: "This is what American Jews want."

American Jews support the peace process, but apparently not the details, according to the latest poll, which was released last week in New York by the American Jewish Committee.

While 68 percent still support the government's peace initiative - down from 84 percent in September 1993 - there is a growing distrust among American Jews of the PLO, only limited support for territorial concessions in the West Bank, and a majority oppose any significant return of the Golan Heights.

In its ad, the ad hoc group tells Yitzhak Rabin that it supports the Middle East Peace Facilitation Act, which is legislation authorizing ing a financial aid package to the Palestinians. But, according to the poll, 63 percent of American Jews said the US should not provide aid to the Palestinians.

LAST JUNE, the organized American Jewish community was exercised over what position to take on legislation to immediately move the US Embassy from Tel Aviv to Jerusalem. The Conference of Presidents of Major American Jewish Organizations came out with a statement of qualified support for the legislation.

But the Israeli government didn't want it. President Bill Clinton doesn't want it. And, according to last week's poll, apparently neither do 80 percent of American Jews.

"Maybe they don't know where the embassy is to begin with," one pollster suggested. "Do you think they know that Jerusalem is the capital?"

Snide though these questions may be, they may be fair.

One of the startling outcomes of the recent poll was a glimpse of what US Jews don't know about Israel. The years 1948 and 1967 apparently don't ring bells for many American Jews, and the majority don't know that Shimon Peres and Benjamin Netanyahu are in opposite camps.

"You don't have to pass an IQ test to have an opinion," said David Singer, director of research for the American Jewish Committee. "These opinions count in the real political world."

No doubt. In fact, 63 percent said that candidates' positions on Israel are important consideration when they vote in presidential elections. What, then, are public figures to do to appeal to the Jews, who appear to support the peace process, but turn thumbs down at many of the initiatives intended to carry it out?

American communal and political leaders cannot even rely on that venerable, standard appeal to the Jewish heart: "Jerusalem is the eternal, undivided capital."

When asked if Israel should be willing to compromise on the status of Jerusalem, 33 percent of American Jews said yes.

The writer is New York correspondent of The Jerusalem Post.

A city, and a symbol

MOSHE DANN

ARE the 60 Jewish families in Hebron really holding up the "peace process," as the stalled negotiations in Taba seemed to indicate? If so, should they be removed?

Evacuating Jewish settlers and the police and soldiers who protect them is a scary prospect, endangering settlements in the area and threatening massive civil unrest. Shared policing of the city, something the Israeli negotiators are offering the Palestinians, is a prescription for direct confrontation between Arabs and Jews there.

Hebron isn't just another city; it is where Jewish history and destiny were founded, where our matriarchs and patriarchs lived and are buried. It was the first capital of the Jewish people under King David, before he went on to establish Jerusalem as his center. It stands alongside Jerusalem as a symbol of Jewish authenticity and meaning.

Over the past 400 years, Hebron has been world-famous for its scholars and teachers. In August 1929, Arabs slaughtered 67 defenseless Jews and maimed hundreds of others. The British police was unwilling to protect the Jewish community, and the survivors fled. For the first time, Hebron became an all-Arab city, and remained so until the Six Day War.

For the past 27 years, Jews have been living in Hebron and the surrounding area despite terrorist attacks and governmental resistance, ambivalence, and neglect. Following the ambush and murder of six students at Beit Hadassah, the former hospital in Hebron, in the spring of 1980, a large IDF presence was placed in the city. But that has not prevented constant attacks.

Although Hebron has been a center for Arab terrorists, the Jewish community there has clung tenaciously to its historic purpose and place. Its presence, albeit controversial, is a vindication of the sacrifices made by the victims of Arab riots, and a testament

Hebron has become the testing ground for Arab and Jewish claims to the homeland ment that the city's Jewish history will not be forgotten.

HEBRON HAS become the testing ground for Arabs' and Jews' resolve in backing their claims to their homeland, and for the future of the "peace process." Both sides offer competing and compelling reasons for being there. Jews rely on historic validity, the Arabs on demographics.

Only a large IDF presence has allowed both sides to coexist. But once the Israeli army is removed ("redeployed"), the area is likely to explode into a Bosnia-style war. No assurances have been given that this nightmare won't happen.

The future of Hebron is thus linked to a much more serious and underlying question: Can Jews and Arabs live together? Every time another terrorist strikes, the government responds on the lines that these attacks are aimed at sinking the peace process.

But is this true? Do the people who carry out these murders think about what Arafat and Rabin are signing, or are they simply determined to kill Jews? Is the political message, "We don't want the peace process," or "We don't want Jews here at all, anywhere," regardless of agreements?

Perhaps these terrorists are really for the peace process, since, following every attack, the government rushes to concede even more to the PLO, thereby fueling a cycle of retreat.

The issue therefore is not 60 families in Hebron, or thousands in the immediate area, but the future of every Jew living in the "West Bank," the Golan Heights and Jerusalem. Indeed, government policy in Hebron affects us all, for it raises questions about Israel's right to exist at all.

Is Hebron merely the next step in a calculated plan to remove all Jews from "Palestine"? If so, Hebron is not only about the past, but about what awaits us.

If government policy is to return to the borders of 1949; then that decision ought not to be made by a few individuals, but by the entire country. The issue strikes at the very roots of the country's democracy.

The government may argue that it has the power to do what it wants; but it has a moral obligation to bring the matter before the people. It stands either for the right of Jews to live in Hebron, or for those who would, if they could, make the whole country Judean.

The writer, a former professor of history, works as a tour guide.

An Arab view of Oslo

WALID M. AWAD

THE Oslo accords were designed to pave the way for a historic reconciliation leading to a peace agreement between Palestinians and Israelis, and, consequently, between Arabs and Jews. They were formulated so as to be able to satisfy the needs of both Israelis and Palestinians.

Palestinians see in them the beginning of the realization of their long-awaited dream: an independent state on the land occupied in the war of 1967, including East Jerusalem as the capital. Israelis see a beginning of the eventual end of their isolation in the Middle East, of acceptance and recognition by the Arab and Moslem world.

The accords will help the Labor/Meretz coalition government and the Israeli peace camp in general realize their Zionist dream of having a Jewish state as far as this can go; it will rid the Jewish state of the dual nationality problem it will face in the near future owing to the ever-increasing number of Palestinians in the West Bank and Gaza. In the former Yugoslavia we see what happens when two different peoples lay claim to the same land.

As expected, the Oslo accords face strong opposition on both sides. The Israeli right-wing opposition parties, including the religious parties, see in the accords an end to the Jewish dream of a Jewish state on all the "Land of Israel." They also see the end of their wishful thinking (non-existence of the Palestinian people).

Palestinian opposition to the accords is twofold. One is based on intellectual analysis, that there will be an inequality in the balance of power (such as the sharing of aquifers originating in Palestinian territories), or the control Israel will exercise on the connecting road between Gaza and the West Bank.

The second type of opposition stems from the issue of perceived rights and emotions. The Palestinians essentially believe that any bargaining with Israel over Palestinian territory is like bargaining over stolen property with the very thief that stole it by force.

Both Palestinians and Israelis stand to gain immensely. But Israel must let go gaining over stolen property with the very thief that stole it by force.

THE NEGOTIATIONS on implementing the second phase of the Oslo accords are nevertheless proceeding and gaining ground in spite of all difficulties. Common sense, justice, and adherence to the spirit and text of the accords seem to be the guiding principles, at least as far as the Palestinian side is concerned.

The logic of force as used by Israel to dictate solutions, as has happened in many areas, will not succeed. While it is true that the balance of power is tilted in Israel's favor, it is also true, nonetheless, that Palestinians possess significant power of their own.

Both Israelis and Palestinians stand to gain immensely from the accords. If a proper economic system is established in the region, leaps can be made in joint advancement for the benefit of all in our area. If national aspirations are appropriately addressed, a smoother transition can perhaps be effected in the direction of the liberation from nationalism, and from closed state structures into some other arrangements based on constructive cooperation.

Much is needed to be done by the Israeli government. It must decide once and for all to let go. The tactics of small-detail negotiations are sowing the seeds of the transfer of spheres of authority should be completed in full, as agreed. Delays, as with the spheres of agriculture and communications, are causing concern among Palestinians, and casting dark shadows on the negotiations.

Israel's insistence on treating the city of Hebron as if it were partly Israeli, and the settler families forcing themselves on the city by the power of the gun, surrounded by barbed wire in the heart of the city's commercial center, is not in the least conducive to peace; nor does it show Israel's good intentions.

Israel, therefore, must decide to let go.

Oslo was the beginning. It was the door to a prosperous future. Widening this doorway to achieve the final objective - Israelis living in peace and harmony - is in the hands of all reasonable men and women.

The voice of reason must prevail. This applies particularly to the current Israeli government.

The writer is executive director of the Palestine Institute of Management, based in Ramallah.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

WE MUST DEFEND OURSELVES

Sir, - I have traveled on the exact same No. 9 and 26 buses to Mt. Scopus countless times over the last few years here as I attended classes at Hebrew University. At the exact same time as the terrorist incident, on August 21. As I sat and thought of the terrible tragedy that occurred and the incredible luck with which I was spared, I became outraged.

Just the week before, I had wondered why Israel had closed Gaza if Arafat was really handling terrorism. And sure enough, despite Arafat's "efforts," just hours after Rabin and Peres trusted that all was safe and secure, they let the terrorists back in to Israel to murder Jews.

Every sane Jew in Israel and abroad wants a real peace between Arabs and Jews, and no one is overjoyed at the prospect of Israeli soldiers stationed in Gaza, Judea or Samaria. However, there is a basic logic and reality that has long been overlooked. Jews will do a better job than Arabs in fighting terrorism because it is our brothers and sisters, sons and daughters, and fathers and mothers who are the ones being murdered.

When listening to Arafat's speeches in which he refers to the murderers of Jews as "our brothers," I know that he is not genuinely serious about fighting terrorism. Doesn't everyone know it? Is there one Jew in the world who believes Arafat has a stronger desire to fight terrorism than Jews - who are defending their families?

Put the security of Jews back in the hands of Jews! This was why the State of Israel was founded. It is perhaps the only way to make sense of the Holocaust, to say never again - never again will Jews allow others to defend them. Who is it that Rabin and Peres are asking to defend us? Yasser Arafat, the man who is responsible for the murder of more than anyone since Hitler.

CRAIG WEISS
Jerusalem.

WE ARE ALL SETTLERS

Sir, - Through its misguided policy and its utter disregard for those who disagree with it, the government has succeeded in splitting the nation and setting brother against brother. It is sacrificing our most precious asset, peace at home, for a fictitious scrap of "peace" signed with a bloody hand. As part of its strategy of divide and rule, the government, with the connivance of its captive media, is also trying to drive a wedge between those Israelis who live across the Green Line (the settlers) and the rest of the population.

It is not, as Abba Eban suggested, a three percent minority versus the people of Israel. At least half of the nation opposes, in varying degrees, the Rabin-Peres-Meretz policy of capitulation. This opposition comprises a broad spectrum ranging from the moderate center to the far right, from diverse religious camps to committed secular Zionists.

We must resist every attempt to differentiate between "them" and "us." The settlers are not only struggling because they want to save their own homes, or because they alone believe in Eretz Yisrael; they are also fighting to defend from impending disaster all who sit in the present comfort and security of their homes in greater Tel Aviv, Haifa and Beersheba.

John Kennedy, when he proclaimed "We are all Berliozes!" understood that West Berlin was not expendable. He understood the moral and psychological importance of West Berlin to the Western alliance. To give up on Berlin, he knew, would be a signal to the Soviet Union that the West lacked the will to defend its own vital interests.

The settlers, by their very presence, are similarly placed in the front line in the ongoing battle for the survival of Israel. In this spirit, we too should proudly claim "We are all settlers!"

GILBERT HERBERT
And 25 other concerned Israelis
Haifa.

THE WORLD BANK AND PEDCAR

Sir, - In Pinhas Inbari's article of September 13, "West Bankers put weight against compromise," there are certain statements that are false. There has been no meeting between the PA and the World Bank to end the role of PEDCAR. In fact, the World Bank signed in July a new agreement with PEDCAR (signed by Abu Ala) to continue the Holist administration under PEDCAR and a new three-year credit of $20 million under PEDCAR for an education and health project. At this time, PEDCAR remains the only instrument for flow of funds to the economic program used by the World Bank.

However, it should be noted that PEDCAR is designed to be a transitional organization and is to continue until the PA ministries reach the strength and capacity to carry out normal development activities. That is, PEDCAR is only a means in building a modern economic administration and was never envisaged to be a permanent substitute for a functioning government. In particular, the PA's ministry of finance must take on an increasing role in consolidating the administration of expenditures. It is extremely unwise to have expenditures autonomously committed outside of a centralized budget system.

Also it should be recorded that all funds under the World Bank's administration are managed under the same procedures as in other countries. In particular, the accounts are audited by international accounting firms and all contracts for projects are subject to competitive bidding. That is, the same standards of accountability and transparency that characterize World Bank projects in other countries are maintained for the West Bank and Gaza projects administered by the World Bank.

ODIN K. KNUDSEN,
Resident Representative,
The World Bank
West Bank and Gaza Resident Mission
Jerusalem.

BY day tenor Neil Rosenshein rehearses Carmen, which opens the new season at the New Israeli Opera on October 5.

By night builder/entrepreneur Neil Rosenshein pulls out his laptop and starts surfing the Internet for information on marshmallows.

"When was the last time you had a homemade marshmallow?" he demands, and explains that his next venture will be a restaurant "serving real marshmallows and hot chocolate the way they made it in Mozart's time."

He will be working on that between upcoming concert performances of Carmen in San Antonio, Texas and Palermo, Sicily, and a full production of Die Fledermaus at New York's Metropolitan Opera. And, of course, his current stint, singing Don Jose at the NIO opposite Kathryn Harries in the title role.

"Work is my hobby," he says simply. "I don't like to be idle. What do you do when you sing on Saturday and have nothing to do till Wednesday?"

Rosenshein, tenor of the times

HELEN KAYE

But he has to be coaxed into admitting that he "builds things. My father was an electrician and I used to help him. I like working with my hands. I do it all, from finding and buying the land to handing the keys to the tenant."

That's to say he designs the buildings - "it's so easy with the software that's available - is his own contractor, and then markets the finished product."

Rosenshein is a burly, handsome, thoroughly likable man, about 1.82 meters in his socks. When he smiles, which is often, all of him seems to get lighter. He loves being here. He adores Tel Aviv "even though I don't usually like heat or noise or dust, here I go out all the time and sit at noisy outdoor cafes, listening to people toot their [car] horns."

Sitting on a bench in the central rotunda of the opera house, Rosenshein looks around and approves of what he sees, saying "whenever I see a new opera house I think of the enormous political courage it takes to build it. It becomes a meeting place for all the arts and creates a true cultural center for a city."

Although Rosenshein is making his debut with the NIO, this is his second visit. The first was 13 years ago to sing The Rake's Progress with the Netherlands Opera at the Israel Festival.

"I was overwhelmed," he says of the experience. "I got off the plane and saw the flag with its blue star of David waving over the terminal, and I burst into tears. All the stars of David I'd ever seen were so tiny, and here were these huge flags. All the way to Jerusalem I couldn't speak. I'm not religious. I don't know what happened."

He wasn't religious, he says, even when he worked as a cantor at synagogues around New York to help pay his tuition at New York's prestigious Juilliard School. He worked as a cab driver too, and "my parents helped."

However, Rosenshein, 47, grew up in an Orthodox home on Flatbush Avenue in Brooklyn. He started at Juilliard while he was still in high school. He graduated in 1972 and his first professional opera was in Cocca Beach, Florida, where he sang Count Almaviva in The Barber of Seville.

His professional break came in 1980 when he auditioned for Leonard Bernstein, who was looking for an American tenor to sing his newly composed Songfest.

To understand this story, you have to know that I never drink. I don't like the taste," Rosenshein says earnestly, "but before important auditions I used to drink half a glass of red wine to steady my nerves."

Every young American tenor was at that audition, he recalls. The custom was to prepare three arias, but Rosenshein had 11, "everything from Mahler to Jacques Brel."

Ten minutes before the scheduled time of his audition he knocked back his half glass, went in and was told that the maestro was running late. This happened twice more "and by the time I got in there, I was feeling great, floating, and when Lenny asked me 'what do you have for us?' I just reeled off all 11."

He got the job and sang Songfest with Bernstein all over the world "which was a great break for my career, but it was an even bigger break for my life because I got to know Lenny. It's not that he made me a star, I'd have become what I've become anyway, but he made me a better artist because he was such a great one.

In between engagements, the opera singer designs buildings and plans restaurants.

Most people just show you pictures, you know, like seeing a picture of the Western Wall [instead of] looking at the real thing. Lenny ... took you there."

ROSENSHEIN also loves acting - he went to Juilliard with the intention of becoming a singing actor - and "my understanding of the characters ... gets deeper each time I do a role."

As for Don Jose in particular, "he's so psychotic. Before you even meet him, he's killed someone. He's a failed priest. He's not so hot at personal relationships and is probably one-eighth Jewish because he's guilty about his mother."

"I'm not sure yet how this Don Jose will come out because we're still working," Rosenshein says. "Externally, he's less passionate because I have an English director [Stephen Lawless], and an English Carmen [Harries]. He's not weaker or less intense, but he's more withheld, so maybe when he finally explodes, it'll be huge because he's held it in so long."

Lenny Kravitz strikes a pose

NEW RELEASES

TIRZAH AGASSI

THE parting shot in the CD booklet for Lenny Kravitz's Circus (Helicon) features dreadlocked Lenny in full frontal glory, with only a black band around his middle and a wisp of feathery, black something or other dangling just below his pubic line. Another shot features him stark naked, halfway through a hoop and sporting a lion's tail.

The album, in which Kravitz, as usual, pays extravagant tribute to the innovators of the past is less newsworthy. Still, it comes much closer to living up to the promise of his debut "Let Love Rule" than did the pop pretensions that followed.

Kravitz, the son of a Jewish TV producer and a black TV actress, is a show-biz kid with a genius for striking poses with panache and a decided talent for recycling the highlights of the past.

Nonetheless, his heart does seem to be in the right place. Even when he's copying Seal's vocals on a song reminiscent of old Jackson Browne, as he does on "Can't Get You Off My Mind," he's chalking up one more for the romantic world view.

The album is full of singles that'll sound awfully good on the radio, and there is plenty to be said for its optimistic theme of "Rock and Roll Is Dead" but "God Is Love" which ends on a note of yearning for "Resurrection" promised in the final cut.

Kravitz is a somewhat limited talent, but a conscientious hard worker. Catchy tunes and solid musicianship plus a penchant for the visions of his parents' generation may not make him a true heavyweight but they do earn him his place in the current rock firmament - to say nothing of multiplatinum sales.

LIKE Kravitz, the British group Blur (now considered Britain's top four-piece band) borrows heavily from the past on its new album The Great Escape (NMC).

This is a concept album of the old Beatles school about, according to the liner notes, "a world at once frightened and soothed." However, the Eighties group Madness seems to be its biggest musical influence, with reference to everyone from the Kinks to Freddie Mercury, David Bowie, the Smiths - in fact the whole encyclopedia of British pop.

Clever lyrics about "Stereotypes" in the suburbs, and the

The pop performer is a show-biz kid with a decided talent for recycling the highlights of the past.

"Country House" escaped to by a narrator who sings "I'm a professional cynic. But my heart's not in it" are tempered by the wistful "Best Days."

Cheeky-faced lead singer/songwriter Damon Albarn, the son of a father who had been involved in psychedelic rock in the late Sixties, may be no latter-day John Lennon, but he's got something.

The mix of idealism and anger that kept him going as a Marxist-toting, earringed teenager termed a "pout" by schoolmates at a provincial vocational school serves him and the band well.

With this, their fourth album, the group is aiming to conquer America.

Their lively and interesting arrangements that include banjo, Mellotron, German waltzes and "zonked-out" keyboards don't seem quite as innovative as they're cracked up to be, but they'll definitely do.

And there is something to their vision of the 21st century on Prozac painted in "The Universal," with lyrics such as "No one is alone/Satellites in every home," but "I'm so sad I don't know why."

Wraps are off 'surprise' TV guest

JOEL GORDIN

THE TV show This Is Your Life, presented by burly, gravel-voiced Amos Etinger, has become a Rosh Hashana institution, like cards and honey-dipped apples.

Since the start of ITV, Etinger has presented sketches of the lives of giants like Golda Meir, Yitzhak Navon, Avigdor Kahalani, Shoshana Damari, Chaim Herzog and Haim Topol, to name only a few, in the format of a program copied from the US and UK.

This year's show, previewed to the press over the weekend, features the life of Shmuelik ("Sham-luk") Machrowsky, who is not exactly a household name. For the record, Machrowsky is the veteran manager of the Maccabi Tel Aviv basketball club. He pointed out in one of his few witty moments that he has been the club's manager almost as long as Etinger has been presenting This Is Your Life.

Nevertheless, it's reasonable to ask why, even if Etinger wanted a sports hero, he chose as the subject of his show the shy, colorless Machrowsky.

Why not one of the top players or coaches like Ralph Klein and Mickey Berkowitz or, at least, the headline-grabbing Maccabi club chairman Shimon Mizrahi?

The answer soon becomes clear. It seems Etinger deliberately wanted someone who would blend into the background and play second fiddle to the real hero of the evening - Aulcie Perry.

This former Maccabi star, it will be remembered, was jailed in the US for drug dealing after he left Maccabi and Israel.

He is currently on parole and, by pulling many bureaucratic strings, Etinger was able to bring him back for a tearful, touching reunion with his former teammates.

Perry's entry onto the stage and into the program was a "surprise" in the original filming.

However, the incident was afterward leaked to the press and "the return of Aulcie" became headline news, described in minute detail from every angle.

Etinger makes the point that there was a strong friendship between Machrowsky and Perry, but nobody will be bothered about Machrowsky after Perry takes the stage, crying real tears.

At this point This Is Your Life becomes The Aulcie Perry Show - and some thinking people may have a problem with this.

Perry was, after all, not a political prisoner, but a convicted felon. Sure, he paid his debt to society and deserves a second chance in life - but does he deserve to be made a national Israeli hero on nationwide television on Rosh Hashana?

At any rate, the show is a fairly interesting walk down memory lane for the country's hoop freaks, who relish every anecdote about the days when Maccabi Tel Aviv beat the best in Europe.

It will be shown in two parts, on September 26 and 27.

Poetry missing from Psalm-based event

CONCERT ROUNDUP

SELECTING the Book of Psalms as the subject of an all-night program is a fascinating idea. The way it was realized last week resulted in quite a few missed opportunities.

The event, entitled "Cantorial Concert," concentrated on the Eastern European tradition only. Highlighting the two present-day centers of this synagogal style - Israel and the US - the glorious voices of Haim Adler, Moshe Shulhof and Ben-Zion Miller, authentic representatives of this tradition, following in the footsteps of the legendary Yossele Rosenblatt, provided a welcome experience. But the multi-faceted pluralism of Israel's cantorial styles, reflected in numerous Sephardic and Near Eastern communities, was entirely absent.

The concert "Psalms in Classical Music" entirely ignored the rich repertoire of psalm settings from the Renaissance and Baroque to the Classics and Romantics. In so doing, the universality of the psalms as an integral part of world culture was treated as something irrelevant.

The Cantus Choir, conducted by Ricardo Hegman, which is hardly capable of filling even a medium-sized chamber-music hall with its meager presence, was completely out of place in the vast dimensions of the Mt. Scopus Amphitheater.

Yeheskel Braun's extremely delicate Psalms and Leonard Bernstein's fascinating Chichester Psalms consequently became a case of love's labor lost.

The Ra'anana Symphonette, conducted by Yeruham Sharovsky, could not have found a more unsuitable work than Partos's subtle Psalms for Strings, and became hopelessly lost in this context.

Rafi Kadishsohn's Concerto for Peter Wertheimer - the versatile soloist playing alternately on saxophones, flute and clarinet - is a loosely constructed, eclectic piece of elements drawn from Romantic and jazz styles of the incidental theater music that is the composer's home base. Its claimed relation to a quoted psalm verse, although commented upon profusely in the program notes, remained obscure.

The "Psalms in the Oriental Communities" event turned out to be a misleading title.

The authentic folk instruments were replaced by synthesizers, electronic keyboards and a jazz drum set. The psalm texts were degraded to a pretext for just another commonplace pop performance.

At this point, this reviewer called it a day - or, rather, a night - and did not hold out through the rest of the proceedings until sunrise.

Mt. Scopus Amphitheater and Halls, Jerusalem, September 14.
Uri Eppstein

AN ALL-Mendelssohn program as the season's opener of the Israel Sinfonietta Beersheba, conducted by Uri Mayer, if not particularly innovative, is certainly most welcome - provided that these well-known works are presented in an uncommonly outstanding performance.

This, deplorably, is not what happened. The Violin Concerto was rendered in a respectable standard performance. Russian-born Mark Peskanov delivered it with flowing ease, drive, and polished technique, though the work's lyricism did not seem to be one of his major concerns.

As for the rest, it is hard, with all the best of intentions, to find a good word to say. It takes a lot of pretentiousness to attempt performing a demanding work such as the Midsummer Night's Dream incidental music with singers (soprano Gladys Mayo and mezzo-soprano Ruth Halbani), a choir (Hemiola) and an orchestra that are incapable of conveying even a hint of its most characteristic and endearing quality: its featherweight fairy-like lightness.

Jerusalem Theater, September 11.
Uri Eppstein

CONTRARY to the program notes, Yoram Leef's Vision of Stone City was not a premiere - this had already taken place in Prague - but a local first performance in the Jerusalem Symphony Orchestra's opening concert of the season, conducted by David Shalom.

A tumultuous first movement - abounding in skillfully manipulated, somewhat commonplace, contrasts of various instrument groups - was followed by a dream-like second movement, evoking a more appealing atmosphere that gradually faded out into the void. What remained unclear was the connection of the work's title with the music itself.

Richard Strauss's Don Juan, in its first JSO performance, is still highly Romantic. It expresses the great lover's joie de vivre, mischievousness, even his amorousness, with none of his Mozartian namesake's demonic qualities. Shalom and the JSO delivered an admirably brilliant, exuberant rendition of the work.

Gil Shalom, at 24, displayed remarkable maturity and subtlety in Beethoven's Violin Concerto, playing with a clear, polished tone, conjuring up song-like lyricism in the second movement and winged sprightliness in the Rondo.

Jerusalem Theater, September 13.
Uri Eppstein

AN endearing quality of violinist Gil Shalom's playing, in the first concert of the Jerusalem Symphony Orchestra's recital series, together with pianist Orly Shalom, is its subtlety and mellowness, as well as the clarity and exhilarating expression of the work's energy and exuberance, setting the tone for a chamber-music evening that was a pure delight.

Orly is not just the little sister but, at 20, an amazingly talented pianist in her own right. Her decisive yet well-rounded touch expresses a forceful musical personality, remarkable temperament, sense of musical form and of clear-cut, significant articulation. With a sure grasp of even the fastest tempi, the duo's perfect togetherness of playing never sounded breathless or hurried.

Intense but not overdone.

warm-blooded emotional expression in Dvorak's and in Cesar Franck's Sonata contributed to an exciting performance, no less than might be expected from more mature and experienced musicians.

Jerusalem Theater, September 16.
Uri Eppstein

THE Israel Symphony Orchestra Rishon LeZion opened its season with a program that was not festive enough for the occasion, yet suggested that the orchestra, which most of the year works in the pit, is on the right track to becoming a solid concert orchestra.

All that was evident when playing Dvorak's Ninth ("New World") Symphony under the competent yet far from inspiring baton of Samuel Wong. In this opus, which can be dubbed as a concerto for orchestra, every section of the orchestra emerged at its very best.

The opening piece on the program was more problematic. Mischa Maisky, a very fine lyrical and expressive cellist, decided to avoid the obvious repertoire and perform Prokofiev's Sinfonia Concertante for cello and orchestra, simply because he is about to record the piece. It was a bad choice to begin with, above all for a season opener. Granted this opus comprises some fine moments of superb composition, but on the whole it is rather dull and Maisky was not able to convince us of its real importance.

Tel Aviv Performing Arts Center, September 14.
Michael Ajzenstadt

Tel Aviv of yore draws the young

MISSING KISSINGER

An adaptation of Elgar Keren's novel. Directed by Jack Messinger. Music, Aron Daur. Hebrew title, Ga'agan Le-Kissinger. At ZOA House Tel Aviv.

Solo ..... Uri Hochman
Cello ..... Karni Postel
Orchestra ..... Orly Messinger
Double Bass ..... Guy Sternberg
Violin ..... Ella Frimstein
Percussion ..... Roy Bar-Ness

Reviewed here after its first performance at this year's TheaterNetto, this 1½-hour show was hailed as a novel, nostalgic and highly sophisticated musical drama. Played by a remarkable comic, Uri Hochman of the mobile mouth and elastic eyebrows, in collaboration with a quintet of original, highly "mod" musicians, it struck a refreshing note of relief amidst the starkly intense monodramas favored in this framework.

THEATER REVIEW

NAOMI DOUDAI

Now transferred to the commercial stage, it attracts enormous audiences of quite another caliber.

Attracted to the personality of the now popular stand-up comedian, teenagers flock to revel in his offside sabra humor, as well as to empathize with the fantasies, ecstasies and torments of the neighborhood adolescent he so dazingly portrays.

Parents and evergreen grandparents - for yes, they too number among the enthusiastic followers - find elements such as the sensitive literary skills of the young author, the sophisticated collage of classical, rock and jazz music, and the original orchestration by the director just as rewarding.

Showbiz effects aside - visual ones are entirely absent on the absolutely bare stage - this is a saga of the old Tel Aviv neighborhood with deep literary, social and human underpinnings.

Vibrant and colorful, it populates the stage with a world of airhead characters and street oddballs, their lifestyles and their perplexities.

The episode on the seashore between the adolescent virgin and the good-hearted whore is one of the most delicate and deeply moving of these.

If the interaction with the musicians is less exploited here than in the original, this still remains a novel and stimulating show, and just as significant as stylish light entertainment as deeply felt local drama.

TOWER RECORDS' TOP 15

THIS WEEK	LAST WEEK	ON CHARTS	ARTIST	TITLE
#1	2	8	GIDI GOV	SONGS FROM 'GOV NIGHT'
#2	1	24	RAMI KLEINSTEIN	APPLES AND DATES
#3	RE	1	RITA	THE GRAND LOVE
#4	RE	5	BOAZ SHARABI	YOU ARE THE NIGHT TO ME
#5	NEW	1	VARIOUS ARTISTS	HIT BOX 4
#6	RE	1	VARIOUS ARTISTS	HIT BOX 9
#7	7	27	ARIK EINSTEIN	FILLED WITH LOVE
#8	3	5	VARIOUS ARTISTS	IT'S ALL FOR YOU
#9	5	7	VARIOUS ARTISTS	NOW 31
#10	NEW	1	HOT CHILI PEPPERS	ONE HOT MINUTE
#11	RE	1	SCATMAN JOHN	SCATMAN'S WORLD
#12	25	2	GYPSY KINGS	GREATEST HITS
#13	6	7	ABBA	GREATEST HITS
#14	11	2	RIKI GAL	COLLECTION
#15	9	2	OLYMPIA	GOLDEN HITS

Tower Records' top-selling albums for the previous week. RE - re-entry

September 24 is the last day for purchasing half-price tickets for The Event on October 10 at Wingate. Phone the Ticket Hotline today, 09-989149 or 09-982957 8 a.m. - 6 p.m. or contact your local Olim organization. NIS 15 (Adults), NIS 10 (Children 5-18, soldiers), Under 5 FREE. Inquire about subsidized bus tickets!

BUSINESS &amp; FINANCE

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 19, 1995

Israeli, Arab ministers discuss regional projects

THE trade ministers of Israel, Egypt, Jordan, and the Palestinian Authority met yesterday in Amman to coordinate regional projects to be presented at the Amman conference on the Development of the Middle East and North Africa at the end of the month.

Economics Minister Yossi Beilin said he and his Arab counterparts were seeking to compile a list of joint projects for which they would seek financing at the three-day conference which opens on October 29.

"Today's meeting is very important. There is consensus among participants on the priority projects for the region," Beilin said yesterday.

He said the projects included highways, bridges on the Jordan River, water development, a joint electricity network, the Israeli-Jordanian-Egyptian Riviera along the Gulf of Eilat, and the joint Eilat-Akaba airport.

JOSE ROSENFELD and news agencies

US Undersecretary of State for Economic Affairs Joan Spero said yesterday in Jerusalem that the Amman conference's focus would be to promote a public/private sector partnership to advance business development in the region. As a result, the priority is to establish a regional development bank, a regional business council, and a tourism board.

Despite staunch German opposition to the creation of the regional development bank, "we have every expectation that a bank will be announced in Amman," Spero said. She noted that the Europeans have mixed views on the issue, and although they would like to present a common European position in Amman, she doubted whether that would be possible.

The international task force on the establishment of a regional development bank will be meeting in Washington on October 6, to complete the bank's plans. The only question that remains, according to Spero, is "who will all the members be."

US Ambassador to Israel Martin Indyk said he expected that the US business delegation, which will be the conference's largest, will attract businessmen from the Gulf states and Israeli, Jordanian, Palestinian, and Egyptian businessmen will benefit in the process.

Israel Chambers of Commerce President Danny Gillerman yesterday said he was pessimistic in the short-term about trade relations with Arab countries. In particular, he pointed to Jordan's delay in signing the completed trade agreement with Israel.

"The fact that a year after the signing of the peace treaty with Jordan the trade agreement is not signed reduces the significance of the Amman business conference," he said.

'Extremism may hinder Mideast investment'

AMMAN (AP) - Extremism and violence in the Middle East could drive away American investors from a region that has become attractive because of prospects of an overall Arab-Israeli settlement, two US executives said yesterday.

Carter Beesee, vice chairman of Alex Brown and Sons Inc., an investment firm based in Baltimore, Maryland, said: "extremism and violence will send wrong signals to potential American investors and negatively affect their perception of the region."

"Stability in Jordan, for instance, is impressive, but investors look at the region as a whole," he said.

Wayne Harber, manager of the Denver, Colorado-based Stone Pine Capital, said it was still early to invest in the region because stability "is an essential requirement in the eyes of investors."

"From an investor's perspective, if you do not see the peace climate improving, you will pack and leave," he said. "The more stability you see, the lower the risk is for the investor."

Harber and Beesee spoke to The Associated Press at the end of a three-day annual meeting that brought together delegates from 30 American pension funds.

The 80 participants, who represent the US Pension 2000 Investments Group, also explored investment opportunities in Jordan, a resource-poor country looking to foreign capital for help to cure its ailing economy.

Delegates were scheduled to arrive in Israel yesterday.

BUSINESS BRIEFS

US official US Undersecretary of State for Economic Affairs Joan Spero, head of the American delegation to yesterday's US-Israel Joint Economic Development Group (JEDG) talks in Jerusalem, said Israel's economic performance has been impressive in the past year. She noted, in particular, how the country has successfully tackled the problems of massive immigration and inflation. Spero pointed to the drop in unemployment and in housing prices - which had significantly contributed to inflation last year - and economic growth as very positive.

Jose Rosenfeld

N. Carolina to open trade office here: North Carolina Governor Jim Hunt announced yesterday that his state would open a trade office here by November 1 to promote technology and business ties. He said Israel is a springboard for a larger regional market which would develop as progress is made in the peace process.

Hunt led a delegation of about 100 business leaders, academics, and state officials. Trade between North Carolina and Israel reached about $110 million last year.

Industry and Trade Minister Micha Harish said Israel could open markets for North Carolina firms in eastern Europe. AP

US pension fund managers to attend conference: Managers of the hundred largest US pension funds, representing assets of $500 billion, will take part in a three-day business conference beginning tomorrow. According to the funds' investment policies, managers are required to invest 10 percent of their accumulated assets outside the US. They are currently in Jordan examining potential investment possibilities there.

Galit Lipkis Beck

Ormat signs pact with Russian fuel concern: Ormat Industries yesterday signed a memorandum of understanding with the Russian fuel concern Gazprom. The two firms hope to create a joint venture to provide Israeli and Russian equipment to gas turbine power stations supplying between 600 kilowatts 6,000 kilowatts. Target markets are both Russia and other nations.

Rachel Neiman

Pharmos has completed a $9 million private offering in which 6m. units at $1.50 per unit were offered. In one year, they will be exercisable at $1.80 per share. The financing "strengthens our balance sheet and provides operating resources through the early part of 1997," CEO and president Haim Aviv said.

Rachel Neiman

Hadar to buy 10% of Sinai: Hadar Insurance signed an agreement yesterday to purchase 10% of Sinai Insurance Agency for about NIS 3m. Sinai, which is traded on the Tel Aviv Stock Exchange, has investments in a number of insurance firms.

Galit Lipkis Beck

Lynn is new Bezeqbit chairman: Former MK Uriel Lynn took over as Bezeqbit's new chairman of the board yesterday, replacing Bezeq director-general Yitzhak Kani. The Bezeq subsidiary was established to import, supply, and sell peripheral telecommunications equipment which the parent company cannot deal with, due to recent Communications Ministry directives.

Tady Siegel

The Tel Aviv District Court yesterday denied a request by the firms Vitalgo and Elmo to file a NIS 1.5b. representative lawsuit against the Israel Electric Corporation. The two companies claimed they, and other businesses, had suffered damages as a result of June's power outage.

The court said the suit was not valid since the firms are not considered consumers according to the consumer protection law, and were charged NIS 50,000 in lawyers' fees.

Rachel Neiman

PM: Power now depends on science, technology

JUDY SIEGEL

THE power and influence of a nation in the 21st century will depend less on its size and more on its scientific and technological infrastructure, Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin said yesterday.

Speaking at the inaugural session of the National Council of Research and Development at the Jerusalem International Convention Center, Rabin said that when the Cold War ended, the big powers decided to divert much of their resources from military might to civilian purposes. This occurred, painfully, in Israel, too. Today, however, civilian research and development are supplying both the country's own military and world markets with its advances, Rabin said.

The premier told the 51-member council - comprising leading scientists, industrialists, and representatives of ministries and institutes of higher learning - that Israel spends 2.2 percent of its GDP on civilian R&D, compared with 1.3 percent in Italy and Canada, 2.1% in the US, and 3% in Japan. Although much needs to be done, the premier noted that Israel is a leader in many scientific fields.

Science and Arts Minister Shulamit Aloni said the rejuvenated council (originally chaired by David Ben-Gurion and inactive for years) must serve as a government adviser. "Tell them that the economic future lies not in stock markets, real estate, bed-and-breakfast facilities, and casinos, but in scientific R&D," she declared.

PM Yitzhak Rabin and Science and Arts Minister Shulamit Aloni attend the inaugural session of the National Council of Research and Development in Jerusalem yesterday. (Flash 90)

Aloni added that she was "angry" that the government had not approved next year's Independence Day theme as "Education and Science," but instead chose "Education and Industry." The minister said she hopes the science theme was not rejected so as not to upset the religious "due to the influence of Rabbis [Eliezer] Schach, [Ovadia] Yosef and [Aryeh] Deri."

Council chairman Prof. Yitzhak Parnas, a neurobiologist at the Hebrew University, said many promising scientific minds, especially among immigrants, are going to waste due to budgetary constraints, and that industry would never allow such waste by keeping useful factories closed down.

'Exports won't continue to grow'

RACHEL NEIMAN

EXPORTS have risen sharply over the past three years but the Israel Export Institute does not see the impressive growth continuing into 1995.

"To our regret, we fear a change in the trend primarily [due to] the Bank of Israel and the Treasury's erroneous exchange rate policy," said outgoing Export Institute chairman Uzi Netanel.

Netanel yesterday presented the institute's annual statistics in advance of National Export Day, being marked today.

Netanel said the policy of reigning in inflation by freezing the exchange rate was "damaging to export profitability on one hand, while the increasing trade deficit threatens continued market growth on the other."

He called for a 6% to 8% currency devaluation followed by a long-term policy of maintaining real exchange rates.

The Export Institute also called for implementation of recommendations made in Horowitz report formulated in the 1960s. These include the establishment of a loan-guarantee fund to assist exporters in marketing abroad and in creating joint ventures with foreign companies.

The report also called for training of small exporters, liberalization of foreign currency regulations, maintenance of export profitability and increased foreign trade risk insurance.

Exports (including diamonds) increased 13.9% in 1994, to $16.88b., from $14.8b. dollars in 1993. Projected growth for 1995 is 13%.

The US represented 31% of 1994 total exports, as compared with 29% in 1993. The EU represented 28% of total 1994 exports, down from 35% in 1993. Exports to Eastern Europe doubled to 4%, from 2%. Exports to Asia made up 19% of total 1994 exports, from 16% in 1993.

Electronics was the leading export industry, capturing 29% of the total export pie in 1994. Chemicals represented 18% of total exports, machinery, 14%; textiles, 9%; metals, 8%; rubber and plastics, 5%; food, 5% and other products 12%.

There are currently 1,801 Israeli companies active abroad.

ICL to cut TAMI staff to 210

ISRAEL Chemicals (ICL) board of directors has decided to reduce the work force of TAMI, its research arm, from 300 to 210.

TAMI will remain independent, with its own board of directors, reversing a decision made before the Eisenberg group bought ICL. The previous board decided to integrate TAMI into the parent company.

In addition, TAMI can now provide R&D services to firms not belonging to ICL. Rachel Neiman

Mordechai Yona sues Lloyd's of London

DENNIS EISENBERG and URI DAN

LLOYD'S of London was sued in the High Court of London yesterday by head of Yona International and president of Israel's Building and Contractors Association, Mordechai Yona, for the non-payment of a $26 million insurance claim, according to Yona's attorney Shraga Biran.

Yona International says that the insurance giant originally agreed to pay the claims, however, over the past 3 1/2 years, has avoided the payment through protracted litigation.

In 1984, Yona, who was invited by Liberia to create jobs in the poverty-ridden country, started a $26m. forest rehabilitation program which was covered by a political insurance policy issued by the French insurer La Reunion Francaise, together with the Paris Pool - a conglomerate of 15 major French insurance groups - and UIC.

The French firms re-insured the business with Lloyd's underwriter and its accredited broker.

Yona International paid hundreds of thousands of dollars in premiums to cover the policy's 1989-1991 period.

During that period, however, a revolution in Liberia broke out, and the country's new leader expelled Yona and expropriated his forest concession.

In 1991, Yona made a claim for compensation after waiting one year from the start of the revolution, as stipulated by the policy. The claim was accepted by Lloyd's underwriter, and a claims adjudicator recommended payment.

In 1992, the insurers accepted there was a loss in principle, and promised to offer compensation within 30 to 60 days.

Some four months after the agreement, however, the French insurers and Lloyd's turned around and rejected the claim.

"As all the syndicated, brokers, and underwriter of Lloyd's are either in liquidation, bankruptcy, or retirement, they are not dealing with the claim on a normal commercial basis," Yona said.

Three months ago, Lloyd's made an offer to settle the claim but it was rejected by Yona.

Invest in the world's major exchanges with Israel Discount Bank

ISRAEL DISCOUNT BANK

ISRAEL LANDS ADMINISTRATION

To receive recorded information by phone or fax:

- 1) Telecall, 03-6388883 (Information on building tenders)
- 2) Telecall, 03-6389363 (Information on results of tenders)

Central Region

Bids are invited for the planning rights by agreement, with an option for land rights, in Netzer Sereni, Rehovot.

Tender 1004/95/Mem Resh

The Israel Lands Administration (hereunder "the Administration") announces its intention to award planning rights, as defined in an agreement, for 81 dunams of land, on which the Administration has determined that at least 500 housing units may be constructed together with auxiliary services, including the option for further uses of the land along Derech Yavne.

The site, within the jurisdiction of the Rehovot Municipality and mostly part of Netzer Sereni, is situated in blocks 3654 and 33656, whose borders are drawn in the tender documents (hereunder "agreement borders"). The successful bidder will also receive an option for the rights, in the form of a development agreement, of an area extending over about 50% of the land, according to its value and subject to the change of its use and approval of the new plan, with the exception of the commercial areas and services in the new plan.

The tender booklet, including a set of diskettes with photogrammetric maps, will be available from 11 a.m. on October 18, 1995, on submission of a receipt from the Post Office Bank for NIS 1,000 (cash only, including VAT) for payment in Israel Lands Administration account 0-24180-0, Central Region, 88 Derech Petah Tikva, Tel Aviv, Tel. 03-5628383, during regular working hours.

A bank check or guarantee in the amount of NIS 500,000 is to be attached to the bid as a deposit. Last date for submitting bids: November 11, 1995 (12 noon). A bid not found in the tender box when it is opened, whatever the reason, cannot be considered.

The Administration reserves the right to accept any bid, or to reject all bids, including the highest, and also reserves the right to extend the date of the submission of the bid, to alter the conditions of the tender (if all bidders are informed), and to negotiate with all or any of the bidders.

This notice is for general information only and does not obligate the Administration in any way, neither as to content nor the dates mentioned here. The conditions are as published in the tender booklet and its appendices.

מסמך המכרז ימסר למתעניינים

Nexus, American Paging introduce new paging device

RACHEL NEIMAN

NEXUS Telecommunications Systems of Givatayim and American Paging yesterday jointly announced the introduction of TAG Pager, a low-cost paging device capable of both sending and receiving messages.

Nexus is a 34.6 percent-owned affiliate of BVR Technologies. American Paging is an 82.4% subsidiary of Minneapolis-based Telephone and Data Systems. The TAG Pager technology was developed under a joint venture called American Messaging Services.

The pager is expected to appeal to the mass market by delivering two-way capability at an anticipated retail price of $200.

The first model will be available during the first half of 1996 and will be manufactured under a licensing agreement with Samsung Electronics.

The company recently received an order from the Russian paging company Inform Excom and will deploy its Moscow network by August 1996.

Nexus also announced yesterday it will begin tests of a vending machine monitoring system with Mashkar, Israel's leading vending machine operator.

The applications integration will be executed by Nexus and the Contop systems house, an integrator of control and management systems and developer of vending machine monitoring units.

The two will integrate Nexus's two-way messaging and location system for vending machines.

ISRAEL MONEY MARKETS
Patah (foreign currency deposit rates) (18.9.95)
Currency (deposit for)	3 MONTHS	6 MONTHS	12 MONTHS
U.S. dollar ($250,000)	4.875	4.875	5.000
French franc (€100,000)	4.875	4.875	4.750
German mark (DM 200,000)	4.875	4.875	4.750
Swiss franc (SF 200,000)	4.875	4.875	4.750
Yen (¥10 million yen)	4.875	4.875	4.750
Shekel Foreign Exchange Rates* (18.9.95)
CHECKS AND TRANSFERS	BUY	SELL	BANKNOTES	BUY
U.S. dollar	3.4077	3.4077	3.4077	3.4077
German mark	2.0306	2.0306	2.0306	2.0306
French franc	4.8635	4.8635	4.8635	4.8635
Japanese yen (100)	0.0024	0.0024	0.0024	0.0024
Dutch guilder	1.6138	1.6138	1.6138	1.6138
Swiss franc	2.2015	2.2015	2.2015	2.2015
Swedish krona	0.4215	0.4215	0.4215	0.4215
Norwegian krona	0.4627	0.4627	0.4627	0.4627
Danish krone	0.2521	0.2521	0.2521	0.2521
British pound	0.6536	0.6536	0.6536	0.6536
Australian dollar	2.2121	2.2121	2.2121	2.2121
S. African rand	2.2208	2.2208	2.2208	2.2208
Belgian franc (10)	0.0222	0.0222	0.0222	0.0222
Austrian schilling (10)	0.0071	0.0071	0.0071	0.0071
Italian lire (1000)	2.8890	2.8890	2.8890	2.8890
Japanese yen (100)	1.8754	1.8754	1.8754	1.8754
Egyptian pound	—	—	—	—
ESL	2.0108	2.0108	2.0108	2.0108
Israeli sheqel	4.7650	4.7650	4.7650	4.7650
Spanish peseta (100)	2.3602	2.3602	2.3602	2.3602

* These rates vary according to bank. — Bank of Israel.

SOURCE: BANK LEUMI

Mac TA beats Hapoel Gvat

CHARLES HARRIS

WITH foreign star Ron Anderson watching helplessly from the sidelines, Maccabi Tel Aviv won an uninspired National Basketball League road game last night by defeating Hapoel Gvat 82-74.

The league game, which had about as much intensity as a Club Med vacation, featured a wide-open shooting exhibition from both clubs. Other than Gvat's two foreign imports — Steve Thompson and Derrick Gervin — the club lacks size and scoring ability which hurt its chances all evening.

The outcome was never in question and the most interesting event of the evening was marked with 18 minutes left in the game. When Gvat's Cusita Gurman fouled Motti Daniel under the basket, it was the first time Maccabi went to the line after 22 minutes of play.

The win, which improves Tel Aviv's record to 2-0, enabled the club to stay in a four-way tie for first place. The club has won 25 of its last 28 games, but needs to fill Anderson's shoes for the tougher games later in the schedule. Gvat fell to 0-2 on the year.

Maccabi held a 44-36 halftime lead, as Gvat kept the score respectable for the first 20 minutes. The lead was stretched to 13 points with two minutes remaining, but Thompson scored the final four points of the half, including a shot to beat the buzzer that cut the lead to eight.

The lead stayed at double digits for most of the second half, although Gvat made one run as Thompson scored six consecutive points including two field goals on second and third efforts.

The 12-point margin had been reduced to a 59-53 lead, but the crowd, which made noise for about three minutes the entire evening, was quickly silenced as Daniel hit a five-footer and came back the next time down the court and canned a bank shot from 10 feet.

Gvat did not pose a serious threat the rest of the way.

Doron Jamchev led Maccabi with 29 points including 21 in the first half while Daniel added 18 and Guy Goodes had 13.

Gvat's Thompson, a former Syracuse University star, led all scorers with 32 points including 19 after intermission while Gervin poured in 26.

Even with Anderson sidelined, Tel Aviv showed it needn't rush to replace its injured American player. Anderson failed to play in one league game as he suffered a season-ending ankle injury during the exhibition matches. He is expected to undergo arthroscopic surgery in the near future.

"Yes, I am disappointed," he said. "I was really looking forward to this season and I don't know what I am going to do about basketball. I have to take care of my body. The time schedule for recovery does not seem to agree with the club."

"We didn't play our best game tonight and we need to play better, but it was a nice win," said Jamchev.

	W	L	Pts.
1. Maccabi Tel Aviv	2	0	4
2. Hapoel Jerusalem	2	0	4
3. Maccabi Rishon	2	0	4
4. Be'er Sheva	2	0	4
5. Hapoel Eilat	1	1	2
6. Hapoel Ashdod	1	1	2
7. Hapoel Galil Ezyon	1	1	2
8. Maccabi Jaffa	1	1	2
9. Hapoel Tel Aviv	0	2	0
10. Maccabi Ramat Gan	0	2	0
11. Hapoel Netanya	0	2	0
12. Hapoel Holon	0	2	0

LONDON (Reuters) — Kenny Dalglish's future at Blackburn was the subject of intense speculation yesterday as the alarm bells sounded at the English champions' door following their poor start to the season.

Dalglish's role at the club has become low-profile and pressure is growing on owner Jack Walker to stop the rot of bad results, either by new signings or making changes at the top.

Amid the speculation, newspapers reported yesterday that Walker was due to meet later this week with Dalglish, his management team and club chairman Robert Coar.

Blackburn crashed to its fourth defeat in six league games against Liverpool at the weekend after its midweek Champions' League defeat by Spartak Moscow.

Dalglish did not attend the Liverpool match. He was at a wedding, but there are now widespread rumors about his future.

The ex-Liverpool manager dramatically quit Anfield in February 1991, only to take over at Blackburn a few months later. He guided them to promotion and followed that by securing the Premier League title last season for the club for first time in 81 years.

In the summer he moved on to become director of soccer, with assistant Ray Harford taking charge of team affairs.

But Blackburn made another switch in its management strategy last week, Derek Fazackerley returning from Newcastle to take charge of the coaching because Harford felt a new voice was needed.

Blackburn is third from bottom with just one win and one draw from six games.

Maradona's state of the union

PARIS (AP) — Backed by other leading world players, Diego Maradona announced the launch of an international soccer players' union yesterday to promote and safeguard players' rights.

Maradona met with 14 of the sport's top players, including Eric Cantona of France, Rai of Brazil, Liberian George Weah and Italian Gianluca Viali. Together the players represented 11 countries.

The Argentine star said the union's objective was to counterbalance the power of the sport's governing body, FIFA.

"Our goal is not to battle with anyone," Maradona told a news conference. "It is only to unite the players."

The idea was first mentioned at the 1986 World Cup finals in Mexico by Maradona and his teammate Jorge Valdano, now coach of Real Madrid.

The players united in protest against the scheduling of matches in the hottest hours of the day, along with other grievances.

Maradona has been banned twice for 15 months by FIFA in the last four years for failing drug tests. His latest ban, for using banned stimulants at the 1994 World Cup finals, ends this month.

Maradona said the union would be based in Paris, would be open to all professional players and would cooperate with all existing unions.

UNITED WE STAND — Diego Maradona, shown training for his new club Boca Juniors, has announced a new soccer union.(AP)

Cantona, the suspended Manchester United star, said the players at the meeting unanimously elected Maradona president of the new union.

The French striker also said he hoped the new union would permit more of a dialogue between players and the game's administrators.

Haifa stops Herzliya

ORI LEWIS

SUPER sub Ofer Shitrit gave Maccabi Haifa a much-needed boost with two goals, as the home side defeated Maccabi Herzliya 2-0 at Kiryat Eliezer in an outstanding National League fixture last night.

The Haifaites, who were soundly beaten 4-0 by Sporting Lisbon in the European Cup Winners' Cup on Thursday, bounced back with a good performance over Herzliya in a match which they could have won by a much higher margin.

In the first half, three chances went begging as Haim Revivo, Alon Mizrahi and Sergei Kandaurov all hit the woodwork with Herzliya goalkeeper Shuli Gilardi well beaten on each occasion.

The deadlock was finally broken in the second half after Shitrit came on. In the 77th minute, he connected with a telling, low cross to stab the ball home from close range.

Two minutes from time, Shitrit put the result beyond doubt when he again struck after receiving a ball from Uruguayan international defender Edgardo Adinolfi.

The result puts Haifa in fourth place in the standings, two points behind the unbeaten clubs.

	W	D	L	F	A	Pts
1. Maccabi Tel Aviv	2	0	0	4	0	6
2. Hapoel Jerusalem	2	0	0	4	0	6
3. Maccabi Rishon	2	0	0	4	0	6
4. Be'er Sheva	2	0	0	4	0	6
5. Hapoel Eilat	1	1	0	3	1	3
6. Hapoel Ashdod	1	1	0	3	1	3
7. Hapoel Galil Ezyon	1	1	0	3	1	3
8. Maccabi Jaffa	1	1	0	3	1	3
9. Hapoel Tel Aviv	0	2	0	2	4	2
10. Maccabi Ramat Gan	0	2	0	2	4	2
11. Hapoel Netanya	0	2	0	2	4	2
12. Hapoel Holon	0	2	0	2	4	2

Davis Cup team should prevail over Slovenia

HEATHER CHAIT

ALTHOUGH the national Davis Cup team which will face Slovenia at Ramat Hasharon on Thursday can best be described as inexperienced and young, predictions nevertheless point to an Israeli victory.

The clash between the two countries will decide who remains in the European Zone A, thus earning the opportunity to qualify for the elite World Group.

Eyal Ran, in his first role as Israel's No. 1 Davis Cup player, and Eyal Erlich will represent the home country in the singles rubbers with veteran Gilad Bloom and Noam Behr as the likely doubles pair.

With Ran, Erlich and Bloom all ranked above Slovenia's top player, Iztok Bozic, 399 in the world, the odds seem stacked in Israel's favor. The visitors arrive, however, boosted by victories over Greece, Finland and Ghana.

In their most recent encounter, they lost 5-0 to Zimbabwe.

While Bozic will certainly be Slovenia's No. 1 singles racket, captain Andrej Jeras is yet to select his second singles and doubles players from Borut Urh (709), Jaka Bozic (970) and new cap, Ziga Janscovec (1,232).

Following Israel's successive defeats by the Czech Republic, Belgium and Norway, which dumped them out of the World Group, the atmosphere at yesterday's press conference was not upbeat.

Gilad Bloom will be playing in his last Davis Cup tie. After announcing his retirement from pro tennis during the summer, he will hang up his racket in a few weeks' time.

"The changeover from the Amos Mansdorf-Gilad Bloom era is now almost complete," said captain Shlomo Gluckstein, "and although this squad is not impressive, the players will gain experience."

Visiting captain Jeras said Israel has a 70-30 chance of winning the tie.

"We have come far for a small country independent only since 1991," he said, "but we expect a tough tie here."

The draw will take place tomorrow at Ramat Hasharon and the matches begin on Thursday at 3 p.m. On Friday, the doubles will begin at 2.15 p.m. and the reverse singles will take place on Saturday starting at 1 p.m.

Rain thwarts Gating's hope of final win

LONDON (Reuters) — Mike Gating's attempts to contrive a win in Middlesex's final match of the season were thwarted by the rain yesterday, the closing day of the English county championship.

It mattered little in the final tide of affairs with Warwickshire already having clinched the title for the second successive season on Saturday and Northamptonshire's hopes of sneaking ahead of Middlesex in to second place disappearing in the rain at Hove.

Gating desperately tried to engineer a result at Taunton, deploying batsman Mark Ramprakash and wicketkeeper Keith Brown as his opening attack in an effort to get Somerset enough runs to set a target.

The home side duly added 221 in 39 overs to reach 323 for seven before declaring and setting Middlesex 350 to win.

County championship results: At Leicester: Leicestershire v Gloucestershire — match drawn. Gloucestershire 196 in 78.3 overs, Leicestershire 57-1 off 18 overs. Leicestershire four points, Gloucestershire none.

At Chelmsford: Essex beat Yorkshire by 89 runs. Essex 313 in 72 overs and 270 (P.Richard 104, R.Rollins 77), Yorkshire 309 in 92.5 overs and 185 (P.Such 5-89). Essex 23 points, Yorkshire seven.

At The Oval: Surrey v Hampshire — match drawn. Hampshire 185 in 45.1 overs and 152 (M.Nicholas 53; M.Bicknell 4-60), Surrey 71-2 declared in 16.1 overs and 175-2 (N.Shaheed 77 not out, D.Bicknell 75). Surrey four points, Hampshire none.

At Taunton: Somerset v Middlesex — match drawn. Somerset 376 in 129.1 overs and 323-7 declared (J.Halliford 111 not out, M.Trescott 59), Middlesex 350-3 declared in 55.4 overs and 262-6 (P.Weekes 79, M.Ramprakash 73). Somerset four points, Middlesex seven.

At Worcester: Match abandoned with Worcestershire 79-1 off 18 overs v Glamorgan.

At Derby: Derbyshire beat Lancashire by 282 runs. Derbyshire 267 in 62 overs and 325 (K.Barnett 88), Lancashire 155 in 38.1 overs and 155 (J.Crawley 52; A.Warner 6-21). Derbyshire 22 points, Lancashire four.

At Dover: Sussex v Northamptonshire — match drawn. Sussex 331 in 102.2 overs and 132-2 declared, Northamptonshire 41-1 declared in 10 overs and 36-0. Sussex three points, Northamptonshire four.

	P	W	L	D	Bt	Bls	Pts
Warwickshire	17	14	2	1	48	94	337
Middlesex	17	12	2	3	51	82	305
Northants	17	12	2	3	41	57	280
Lancashire	17	10	4	3	48	61	268
Essex	17	9	9	0	42	58	228
Gloucestershire	17	8	4	5	45	50	223
Leicestershire	17	7	7	2	41	54	178
Yorkshire	17	7	8	2	39	55	206
Somerset	17	7	7	5	40	49	201
Worcestershire	17	6	7	4	28	57	182
Northamptonshire	17	5	9	3	31	54	178
Surrey	17	5	8	4	34	55	188
Hampshire	17	5	8	4	32	58	188
Derbyshire	17	4	7	6	39	64	167
Sussex	17	4	7	6	37	51	162
Glamorgan	17	3	8	6	40	57	145
Durham	17	3	8	6	40	57	145
Kent	17	3	10	4	40	44	132

Joseph Hoffman, Sports Editor

Sports Channel filler is 'extremely' idiotic

ARYEH DEAN COHEN

X MARKS the spot on pirate treasure maps, but the X that marked the beginning of Sports Channel's latest Extremely Amazing (Sunday, 9 p.m.), should serve as a warning that says: Danger! Cheap filler ahead!

Sports Channel's locally produced programming, like its fine National Basketball League preview show, are excellent, so it's hard to understand why they insist on filling so much air time with foreign time-wasters like this.

For those who didn't have closets to rearrange and actually sat through this ESPN-supplied stuff, it was Horse Night: Native Americans riding horses, Italians on horses, Indonesians on horses and finally, Turks on horses. Even My Friend Flicka would bridle at such a banal of hoof happenings.

While the Native Americans' "suicide race" down a mountain slope, into a river and then into a coral was cool the first time, it dragged the second or third. And in keeping with ESPN-2's commitment to Generation X-type sports, the footage was suitably jazzed up, in this case meaning a weird shaking camera effect that made viewers feel like they were watching one of those 19th-century Thomas Edison creations instead of television.

The choppiest was novel in the first segment, but by the time we got around to Italian reenacting jousting matches and horse-borne Turks tossing spears at each other, it had worn thin. It was also hard to see the point of any of the "competitions" except on the tip of the items being thrown. In one, an Italian fellow lost control of his horse and ended up crashing into the ground, turning his face into a pizza. "But there's nothing worse than letting down the neighbors," said the narrator. With neighbors like that, it's time to move to a new town.

In Indonesia, we were told that the exploited bareback child riders average about eight years old, and retire at 12 — presumably because that's when puberty kicks in.

What did we learn in half an hour? That people are crazy about horses all over the world, but that anyone with horse sense could gladly do without Extremely Amazing, which was extremely silly.

AS we've said here before, we love Mel Allen, so it was a shame to see him and the rest of the This Week in Baseball shuffling for the wild card system on Super Channel (Sunday, 3 p.m.) in case you forgot, the show's produced by Major League Baseball, which must be worried about falling attendance and just wanted to remind viewers that they SHOULD be excited about the format. Bringing on players whose teams are involved in the wild card race is bogus; presenting both sides of the argument would have been classier, Mel. As for the upcoming playoffs and World Series, Super Channel plans to show at least highlights of Series games in October.

NOTE to NFL fans: Sky does not list any American football action this week, and Sports Channel broadcasts are unlikely until later in the season, making Prime Sports's Sunday night games the only NFL coverage available locally for now.

Quality Classifieds

RATES

PRICES ARE AS FOLLOWS — All rates include VAT: Single Weekday — NIS 87.75 for 10 words (minimum), each additional word NIS 8.77; FRIDAY and HOLIDAY EVE — NIS 126.70 for 10 words (minimum); each additional word NIS 12.67; MONDAY, WEDNESDAY and FRIDAY (Package) — NIS 210.60, each additional word NIS 21.06; WEEK RATE (6 insertions) — NIS 280.60, each additional word NIS 28.06; FOUR FRIDAYS NIS 362.70 for 10 words (minimum) each additional word — NIS 36.27; MONTHLY (24 insertions) NIS 561.60 10 words (minimum) each additional word — NIS 56.16.

DEADLINE OFFICES: Jerusalem — weekdays — 12 noon the day before publication; for Friday and Sunday — 6 p.m. on Thursday. Tel Aviv and Haifa — weekdays — 12 noon, 2 days before publication; for Friday and Sunday — 4 p.m. Thursday in Tel Aviv and 12 noon Thursday in Haifa.

GENERAL

DWELLINGS

WHERE TO STAY

JERUSALEM INN GUESTHOUSE — family rooms with private bathroom, reasonable rates. City center. ☎ 02-252757, Fax: 02-251297

INN PLACES LTD. — affordable home bed & breakfast, self-catering apt., country-wide, choice locations. Tel/Fax 09-576204, P.O.B. 577, Herzliya.

JERUSALEM LODGES Ltd. — Short term rental Bed and breakfast P.O. Box 4223, Jerusalem 91044. Tel: 02-511745 Fax: 02-518541

VEGETARIAN GUEST HOUSE, bed and breakfast, Amman Village, Galiilee mountains, Tel: 06-688043

SERVICES

LESSONS

HEBREW CENTER. Intensive, private lessons. All languages. ☎ 03-5227950, 02-385383; 04-222947. (+ language teachers needed)

GENERAL

NEEDED URGENTLY. FRENCH TO ENGLISH medical translator, free-lance. Tel: 07-518805.

PURCHASE/SALE

WANTED

BUYING ANTIQUES, old furniture and household contents. ☎ 03-8831724, (home) 03-888191.

PERSONALS

MATRIMONIAL

Helena International Special Offer For educated, pleasant, and quality men (Bachelors) only. Aged 40-45 Contact our offices by Ruth Hashani and Register Free! For an appointment with me, call 02-250397, 03-5243335

MODERN ORTHODOX, AMERICAN S.F., 36, 1.8 m, very attractive, financially independent, seeks partner to establish family in U.S. and/or Israel. Send photo/info: P.O.B. 2828, Jerusalem.

JERUSALEM

DWELLINGS

RENTALS

BEIT HAKEREM, Jerusalem, 5 large bedrooms, new, luxurious, $250 monthly. Tel: 03-6263327.

SALES

ITALIAN COLONY. Last few choice luxury apartments. Parking, garden, balconies. On private land. From $275,000. ☎ 02-617886, 02-695571.

WHERE TO STAY

LORNA SAKALOVSKY STUDIO APARTMENTS, short-term rentals, heart of Jewish Quarter. Tel/Fax: 02-271221.

NEAR KING DAVID, 2 1/2, sleeps 2-5, large garden, fully equipped, newly renovated. ☎ 02-5535598.

VEHICLES

ARIE PALOG — QUALITY CARS: buying, selling, leasing, trading. ☎ 02-734639; Fax: 02-734518.

TEL AVIV

DWELLINGS

RENTALS

(NO AGENTS). Apartments in all sizes in the Tel Aviv and Dan region, immediate. Tel: 03-688894.

NORTH, 4, LUXURIOUS, spacious, quiet, air conditioned, elevator, parking. Yael Realtor (MALDAN) ☎ 03-6426253.

SALES

NORTH TEL AVIV, quiet, penthouse, duplex, luxurious, 400 sq.m. "Kav Heyam" Tel: 03-5236988

RAMAT AVIV, BEAUTIFUL 5 + balcony, quiet, open view, $550,000. Yael Realtor (Maldan), ☎ 03-6426253.

BUSINESS OFFERS

BUS. PREMISES

RENT OR SALE: 52 sq.m. shop entrance, 29 Mardot St., (textile center). Call owners directly. ☎ 03-5271333 Naomi of Herzi.

SERVICES

FOR HEALTHY BODY & a happy mind, have a professional massage or shiatsu. Call 03-5602328.

SITS. VAC.

HOUSEHOLD HELP

FORGET THE REST! We are the best! The biggest and oldest agency in Israel. For the highest quality live-in/out jobs phone Au Pair International. Tel: 03-6190423.

IMMEDIATE JOBS available, friendliest families, best conditions, the Agency with a heart for the Au Pairs. Call Hilda 03-9659337.

GENEROUS ENGLISH family seeks South African au pair, live-in, central Tel Aviv. $700 + immediate bonus 200 shekels ☎ 052-452002.

CRITIC'S CHOICE

CLASSICAL MUSIC

MICHAEL AJZENSTADT

ARIE Levanon leads the Jerusalem Symphony Orchestra today (1:00) in a special open studio concert at the Henry Crown Symphony Hall in Jerusalem, performing Brahms's Variations on a Theme by Haydn, the overture to Mignon by Thomas, and Leroy Anderson's Irish Suite. Soprano Eva Ben Zvi is the soloist in Gliere's Concerto for Voice and Orchestra. Subel Radwan leads Arab and Jewish musicians in a concert featuring classical Arab music. Tonight (8:30) at the Zionit Confederation House in Jerusalem.

DANCE

MICHAEL AJZENSTADT

ALTHOUGH the brief, seeming artistic calm at the Inbal Dance Company may already be coming to an end, the company continues to perform Zoffa, its first presentation under the new Margalit Oved regime. The program is an eclectic mix of dance, theater and music. Tonight (8:30) at the Inbal Theater in the Suzanne Dellal Center in Tel Aviv.

The Bat-Dor Dance Company is at its Tel Aviv Theater tonight (8:30) performing Nils Christie's Luminescence, Joe Orlando's The Spirit of the Drum and Ania Brud's Head of the Shoe.

TELEVISION

RUTH KERN

MELVIN and Howard, based on the true story of the weird trajectory of a brief encounter between a reclusive billionaire hunchbacker and the man who gives him a lift, could have been subtitled Paul and Jonathan. Following the 1980 film, the second they had worked on together, actor Paul LeMat's promising career stalled and director Jonathan Demme's fortunes took off.

LeMat's portrayal of Melvin Dummar was the culmination of a series of Average Joe roles - most notably from American Graffiti (1973) and Citizen's Band (1977, directed by Demme) - in which he managed to be both tough and sweet, dim and canny.

It may be more than just a coincidence that LeMat came into his own during Jimmy Carter's tenure in the White House, when real populism - and not Ronald Reagan's subsequent dunder-ranch version of it - was in. During the '80s, he appeared in a series of forgettable films and made-for-TV movies, but has since disappeared from the screen. It would be nice to see him in a leading role again.

Meanwhile, we'll have to content ourselves with Melvin and Howard, on Second Showing at 10 p.m.

FILMS

ADINA HOFFMAN

★★★★SMOKE - Set in and around a cigar store in Brooklyn, circa 1990, the film - an engrossing collaboration between novelist Paul Auster and director Wayne Wang - is divided into five chapter-like episodes. It teems with characters whose lives sometimes intertwine and sometimes don't, but whose concerns (missing fathers, repayment of debts, the relativity of innocence and guilt) have a funny way of reinforcing the lives of the people all around. The fractured storyline follows naturally from Auster's fascination with the modern city as it goes to seed. With fine performances by William Hurt, Harvey Keitel, Forrest Whitaker and Stockard Channing (English dialogue, Hebrew subtitles. Not recommended for children).

WHAT'S ON

TELEVISION

- CHANNEL 1
6:30 News in Arabic 6:45 Cartoons
7:00 Good Morning Israel
- EDUCATIONAL TV
8:00 Anthropology 8:30 Literature
8:55 Arithmetic 9:25 Young children's programs 9:55 Family relations 10:30 Literature 10:55 French 11:10 Mathematics 11:20 Science 11:35 English 11:45 Israeli cinema in the 30s 12:15 Science and technology 12:40 Geography 12:55 Documentary about the making of films 13:30 Children's programs 15:00 Current affairs
- CHANNEL 1
15:30 Shana Tova to the Children of Israel - festive New Year's program with performances emphasizing road safety 17:00 A New Evening 17:35 Shana Tova (continued) 18:15 News in English
- ARABIC PROGRAMS
18:30 Documentary series 19:00 News
- HEBREW PROGRAMS
19:30 Hashmait video clips 20:00 Mahat 21:00 G.S.I. 21:55 Chinese Hour - last part 23:00 Mastermind - quiz show 23:30 News magazine
- CHANNEL 2
13:00 Tiger Town - A Walt Disney film about a boy and his father who root for the local baseball team. The father's dying words give the boy the strength to bring victory to the team. Starring Roy Scheider and Justin Henry 14:00 Open Cards - youth issues (rpt) 15:00 Disney time 16:00 The Bold and the Beautiful 17:00 Roshet at Five 17:30 Love - romantic game show for youngsters 18:00 Planet - fashion - fashion magazine 18:30 Second Chance - drama by the producers of Knots Landing 19:25 Lingo 20:00 News 20:30 Comedy Series 21:05 Hamisham Halakim - local comedy 21:35 Hidden drawers - drama 22:10 Bitter Blood - two-part dramatization of a true story of a woman who loses everything. As her marriage disintegrates, she seeks comfort in the arms of a man who conceals a dark character (88 min) 00:00 News 00:05 Bitter Blood (continued) 00:05 Another Love 01:00 Vietnam 01:55 The Adventures of Ned Bliemel - classic Western. Ned sets out to find his father in the middle of a war and arrives at a lawless town which is run by one corrupt family (91 mins)

JORDAN TV

- 13:00 Captain Planet - cartoon 13:30 Mantis - science fiction 14:00 The Road to Avonlea 15:00 Families 16:00 French programs 18:35 You Bet Your Life 19:00 The Piglet Files - comedy 19:30 The Bold and the Beautiful 20:15 True Blues - drama 21:00 News in English 21:25 Trade Winds - Part 2 22:30 Glass Virgin - miniseries 23:00 Grace Under Fire - comedy 23:30 Varieties
- MIDDLE EAST TV
13:00 700 Club 13:50 Out of the Blue (1947) - Humorous antics in an apartment building where an eccentric artist lives. Starring Virginia Mayo and George Brent (64 mins) 14:30 Moccasin 15:55 Healthlink 16:20 Inspector Gadget 16:45 Flying House 17:10 Documentary: Journey Across the World 18:10 Magnum P.I. 18:00 World's Next Top Model (Arabic) 19:30 CNN Headline News 20:00 America's Funniest Home Videos 20:30 Star Trek: The Next Generation 21:20 Babylon 5 22:10 700 Club

CABLE

FAMILY CHANNEL (3)

- 8:00 Roxanne 9:00 One Life to Live 9:45 The Young and the Restless 10:30 Perfect Strangers 10:55 The National Hours 11:30 Celeste 9:40 Neighbors 12:35 Perry Mason 13:30 Starting at 1:30 14:05 St. Elsewhere 14:55 Roxanne 15:40 Melrose Place 16:55 Antenna 17:45 Israeli Clips 18:00 One Life to Live 18:45 The Young and the Restless 19:30 Local broadcast 20:00 Celeste 20:50 Beverly Hills 90210 21:40 Friends 22:05 Robin's Hood 22:50 Murphy Brown 23:30 Seinfeld 24:55 ESN 25:00 Draw and Order 1:25 Dangerous Curves

MOVIE CHANNEL (4)

- 10:30 Fergie and Andrew (1982) - (rpt) 12:05 The Defector (1968) - (rpt) 13:40 What's New at the Movies 13:50 Eddie and the Cruisers (1983) - (rpt) 15:25 Coming of Age (1991) - (rpt) 16:55 One Against the Wind (1991) - (rpt) 18:35 Family of Strangers (1993) - (rpt) 21:00 Martial Outlaw (1993) - (rpt) 22:00 The Defector (1968) - (rpt) 23:40 What's New at the Movies 13:50 Eddie and the Cruisers (1983) - (rpt) 15:25 Coming of Age (1991) - (rpt) 16:55 One Against the Wind (1991) - (rpt) 18:35 Family of Strangers (1993) - (rpt) 21:00 Martial Outlaw (1993) - (rpt) 22:00 The Defector (1968) - (rpt) 23:40 What's New at the Movies

CHILDREN (6)

- 6:30 Cartoons 8:00 Surprise Garden 8:30 Alvin 11:00 Mighty Max 10:35 Back to the Future 11:00 Family Ties 11:30 Crossroads 12:30 Surprise Garden 13:30 Little Monsters 14:10 Casper 14:30 The Brady Bunch 15:30 Saved by the Bell 16:00 Lois and Clark 17:00 The Black Stallion 17:30 Surprise Garden 18:30 Alvin and the Chipmunks 19:10 Spider-Man 19:30 Three's Company 20:00 The 24th Hour 20:30 Child 20:30 Perfect Strangers 20:55 Step by Step 21:20 Cheers 21:45 Clips

SECOND SHOWING (6)

- 22:00 Melvin and Howard (1980) - Academy Award-winning comedy based on the real life story of Melvin Dummar, who tried to partay a chance encounter with billionaire Howard Hughes into being named his beneficiary. Starring Paul LeMat, Jason Roberts and Mary McCormack. Directed by Jonathan Demme (90 min) 23:35 Body and Soul (1947) - Classic movie about the story of a ruthless boxer. Starring John Garfield and Lilli Palmer. (101 min)

DISCOVERY (8)

- 8:00 Open University: History 12:00 Rediscovering America 13:00 To Kill and Kill Again 14:00 Open University (rpt of morning's programs) 16:00 Rediscovering America 17:00 To Kill and Kill Again 18:00 Open University (rpt of morning's programs) 20:00 Secret Life of the Office 20:30 In Search Of... 21:00 The Nature of Things 22:00 Special Forces 22:30 Fields of Armor 23:00 Secret Life of the Office 23:30 In Search Of... 00:00 Open University (rpt of morning's programs)

ITV 3 (33)

- 17:00 Cartoons 17:30 Sage of the Ages 18:30 Open Studio (Arabic) 19:00 News in Arabic 19:30 Doctors Talk (rpt) 20:30 Songs 21:00 Mabab 22:00 Weekly Column

ETV 2 (23)

- 15:30 Full House - comedy 16:00 The World at War (rpt) 18:00 Keep Fit 18:15 Neon Rider 19:00 Current Affairs for children 19:30 Family Relations - overcoming dyslexia 20:00 A New Evening (with Russian subtitles) 20:30 Lubbock's Tan Sons 21:00 The World - A TV History 21:30 Goya - documentary

SUPER CHANNEL

- 5:00 ITN News 8:15 US Market Wrap 8:30 Steaks and Deals 7:00 Today featuring ITN World News and FT Business 9:00 Super Shop 10:00 European Money Wheel 14:00 US Market Wrap 17:30 FT Business Tonight 18:00 ITN News 18:30 The Man Who Colors Stars 19:30 The Saline Scott Show 20:30 Dateline International 21:30 ITN News 22:00 The Tonight Show with Jay Leno 23:00 Volvo PGR European Tour 00:00 FT Business Tonight 00:30 NBC News 1:00 Real Personal

STAR PLUS

- 6:00 The Sullivan 6:30 World Cuisine 7:00 Entertainment Tonight 7:30 Donahue 8:30 Santa Barbara 9:30 The Bold and the Beautiful 10:00 Oprah Winfrey 11:30 Rivers 11:30 World Cuisine 12:00 Aerobics 12:30 The Sullivan 13:00 Small Wonder 13:30 Star Trek 14:30 Batman 15:00 Home and Away 15:30 Entertainment Tonight 16:00 Oprah Winfrey 16:30 Flying Doctors 17:30 The Extracurricular 18:30 The Bold and the Beautiful 19:00 Santa Barbara 20:30 Hard Copy 20:30 Baywatch 21:30 Mista of Science 22:30 Entertainment Tonight 23:00 Oprah Winfrey 00:00 Hard Copy 00:30 Home and Away 1:00 The Sullivan

CHANNEL 5

- 7:00 - 8:30 Bodies in motion 16:00 Bodies in motion 16:30 Israeli basketball: Maccabi TA vs Hapoel Gvat 18:15 Show Jumping 19:00 Premier league soccer roundup 20:00 Boxing 21:00 National league soccer 22:00 Argentinean league soccer roundup 23:30 NFL

EUROSPORT

- 8:30 Eurogolf 9:30 Dance 10:30 Soccer magazine 11:30 Brazilian league soccer 12:30 Speed world 14:30 Athletics 15:30 Live cycling from Spain

CINEMA

- 7:15 * Pocahontas (Hebrew dialogue) * Pagamaster (Hebrew dialogue) 5 * Smoke 4:45, 7:15
- ARAD
STAR 3 950904 Casper 7:15 * Braveheart 8:30 * While You Were Sleeping 9:30 * Village of the Damned 7:15, 9:30 * Tommy Boy 7:15
- ASHDOD
G.G. Gil Muriel's Wedding 7:30, 10 * Braveheart 8:15, 9:30 * Water World 4:30, 7:15, 10 * Die Hard 3 5, 7:30, 10 * Paganaster 5 G.G. Gil 1:30 7:15 2222 Forget Paris 7:30, 9:45 * French Kiss 5, 7:30, 9:45
- ASHKELON
G.G. Gil Village of the Damned-Shallow Grave 5, 7:30, 10 * Muriel's Wedding-The Madness of King George 5, 7:30, 10 * Water World 4:30, 7:15, 10 * RAV-CHEN 5 7:1223 Braveheart 9:30 * Forget Paris 7:30, 9:45 * French Kiss 5, 7:30, 9:45 * Pocahontas (Hebrew dialogue) 5, 7:30 * Dolores Claiborne 4:45, 7:15, 9:45
- BAT YAM
RAV-CHEN 5 5531077 Bad Boys-Don Juan-Forget Paris 5, 7:30, 9:45 * Die Hard 3 5, 7:15, 9:45 * The Bridges of Madison County 4:30, 7:15, 9:45 * Water World 4:30, 7:15, 9:45 * Dolores Claiborne 4:45, 7:15, 9:45
- BEERSHEBA
G.G. Gil Casper-Batman Forever 5 * Village of the Damned-Water World 4:30, 7:15, 10 * Carrington 5, 7:30, 9:45 * RAV-NEGEV 1-4 222278 Don Juan-Forget Paris 5, 7:30, 9:45 * Bad Boys 5 * Dolores Claiborne 4:45, 7:15, 9:45 * Forget Paris 7:30, 9:45
- DIMONA
MOFET Batman Forever 5, 8
- HADERA
LEV 1-4 French Kiss 7:15, 9:45 * Pocahontas (Hebrew dialogue) 5:15 * Andre Carrington 7:15, 9:45 * RAV-OASIS 1-3 673067 Casper 5 * Bad Boys 7:30, 9:45 * French Kiss 5, 7:30, 9:45 * Water World 4:45, 7:15, 9:45
- HERZLIYA
COLONY CINEMA 1-2 (MANDARIN) 5 602888 Forget Paris-Muriel's Wedding 5, 10 STAR 550028 29 Sokolov St. Carrington 7:15 * French Kiss 5:45 * The Bridges of Madison County 7:15, 9:45 * Water World 7:15, 9:45
- KARMEL
CINEMA 1-3 5 887277 Braveheart 5:30, 9 * Forget Paris-Dolores Claiborne 7, 9:30
- KFAR SAVA
G.G. Gil Water World-The Bridges of Madison County 4:30, 7:15, 10 * Water World 10 * Pocahontas (English dialogue) 7:30 * Pocahontas (Hebrew dialogue) 7:30 * French Kiss 5, 7:30, 10 * Forget Paris 7:30, 10 * Batman Forever 5 * Don Juan 5, 7:30, 10 * Carrington 5, 7:30, 10
- KIRYAT BIALIK
G.G. Gil KIRYON 1-9 5 779166 Water World-Die Hard 3-The Bridges of Madison County 4:45, 7:30 * Casper-Batman Forever-Power Rangers 4:45 * While You Were Sleeping 7, 9:30 * Braveheart 7:30, 9:45 * Judge Dredd 7, 9:30 * French Kiss 4:45, 7, 9:30 * Free Willy 2 4:45, 7 * Village of the Damned 7, 9:30
- KIRYAT ONO
MATNAS Braveheart 8
- KIRYAT SHEMONA
G.G. Gil Water World 4:30, 7, 9:45 * Village of the Damned-The Madness of King George 4:30, 7, 9:30
- LOD
STAR Braveheart 8:45 * Batman Forever 5 * Muriel's Wedding 7:15, 9:45 * La 7:15, 9:45
- NAHARIYA

PRIME SPORTS

- 6:00 Tennis 6:30 Golf; 1995 Jamaica Classics 7:30 Baseball 10:00 Tennis 12:00 Aerobics 12:30 WPGET golf highlights 13:30 Futbol Mundial 14:00 Cycling 16:30 Chinese league soccer 18:30 Futbol Mundial 19:00 Cycling 20:00 Tennis 22:00 Superbikes 23:00 Futbol Mundial 1:30 Aerobics

BBC WORLD

- News on the hour 6:00 BBC Newsday 9:15 Panorama 10:25 The Late Show 11:25 Time Out: Tomorrow's World 14:15 The Money Programme 16:10 World Business Report 16:25 Time Out: The Travel Show 17:15 Panorama 18:25 Time Out: Film '95 21:05 Panorama 22:25 Time Out: The Clothes Show 23:25 World Business Report

CNN INTERNATIONAL

- News throughout the day 7:30 Monday 8:30 World Report 9:45 CNN Newsroom 10:30 Showbiz Today 11:30 World Report 12:00 Business Day 13:00 Business Asia 13:30 World Report 14:00 Business Asia 15:00 Larry King Live 15:30 OJ Simpson Special 16:30 World Sport 17:00 Business Asia 20:00 World Business Today 20:30 CNN World News 21:00 International Hour 21:30 OJ Simpson Special 22:45 World Report 23:00 World Business Today 23:30 World Sport 00:30 Showbiz Today

SKY NEWS

- News throughout the day 6:30 ABC World News 7:00 Sunrise 10:30 Fashion TV 11:30 ABC Nightline 12:00 World News and Business Report 12:30 CBS News This Morning 15:30 World News 16:30 Talking with David Frost 18:00 Live at Five 19:30 Tonight with Adam Boulton 21:00 World News and Business Report 21:30 The OJ Simpson Trial 1:30 CBS Evening News

RADIO

VOICE OF MUSIC

- 6:06 Musical Matinee 9:06 D'Angelo Scott: Suite no 3 for harpsichord (Antony & Cleo); Bach: Cantata no 199; Beethoven: Sonata no 28 in A op 101 (Solomon); Rachmaninoff: Symphony no 2 (Moscow Philharmonic); Ravel: Sonata for violin and cello (Kantorow, Fujiwara); Kodaly: Missa brevis (Kings College Chapel, Cambridge) 18:00 Light Classical - Wieniawski: Violin concerto in F sharp minor (Shaham); Chopin: Krakowianka op 14 (Weissenberg); Glazunov: Concerto in E flat for saxophone and strings (Swedish Radio Orchestra) 22:00 Arsh Levonien, conductor; Eva Ben-Zvi, soprano; Thomas: Mignon overture; Brahms: Variations on theme by Haydn; Gliere: Concerto for coloratura and orchestra; L. Andersen: Irish Suite 24:00 Encore 15:00 From the Recording Studio - Zecharia Plavin (piano); Liszt: Prelude and fugue on BACH; Elton Avitzur: Piano solo; Schumann: Kreisleriana 18:00 Leonard Bernstein - conductor and conductor 18:00 New CDs - Berlin: La demotion de Faust (Lyon Opera orch and choir) 20:06 From the World's Concert Halls - Sabine Meyer wind ensemble. Kronmer: Partita in E flat op 70; Beethoven: Sonatas op 79; Casella: Piano Concerto; Mozart: Serenade in C minor; K388 22:00 A Musical Journey

CRYPTIC CROSSWORD

- ACROSS
- Searching or casting about for sport (5-6)
  - A gift for revolutionary entertainment (6,5)
  - Name has to be changed? So be it (4)
  - Rush back to see the animal (4)
  - Living in the wild, not a flat (7)
  - Without breaks is no French way to work (7)
  - One has no faith in father lacking a horse (5)
  - Has wrongly won point (4)
  - Found in the wild, their return is celebrated (4)
  - Describing a boom in the travel industry (5)
  - The gardener likes to see it overgrown (7)
- DOWN
- Ten in one sort of enclosure are cattle (4)
  - Allow no opening for a substitute (7)
  - The last thing one might be taken for (4)
  - It's out of the frying pan into the soup, perhaps (7)

- Want to work with hands, say (4)
- Master volume (4,7)
- Neat and precise form of epithet (4,2,5)
- Scientist and Christian in Devon (6,5)
- Scheme that gives a little professional status (11)
- Olga's drunk on port (5)
- Lowest change for diner (5)
- Cold region of South Spain and Portugal (7)
- They take pictures about a thousand times (7)
- Objects and doesn't go on (4)
- Circular letter to a friend reputedly brings bad luck (4)
- Fortune made by a driver, possibly (4)

SOLUTIONS

ACROSS
1 Prig (5)
4 Thick (5)
10 Passage (7)
11 Deadly (5)
12 Additional (5)
13 Deer meat (7)
15 Thought (4)
17 Steep (5)
19 Corsets (5)
22 Release (4)
25 Weather (7)
27 Skirmish (5)
29 Tartan (5)
30 Graceful (7)
31 Berie (5)
32 Scatter (5)

DOWN
2 Respond (5)
3 Helplessness (7)
5 Puckish (5)
6 Content (7)
7 War-horse (5)
8 Oven (5)
9 Separate (5)
14 Comfort (4)
16 Adroit (4)
18 Confidential (7)
20 Storm (7)
21 Range (5)
23 Revolt (5)
24 Trivial (5)
26 Viper (5)
28 Depart (5)

QUICK CROSSWORD

- ACROSS
- 1 Prig (5)
  - 4 Thick (5)
  - 10 Passage (7)
  - 11 Deadly (5)
  - 12 Additional (5)
  - 13 Deer meat (7)
  - 15 Thought (4)
  - 17 Steep (5)
  - 19 Corsets (5)
  - 22 Release (4)
  - 25 Weather (7)
  - 27 Skirmish (5)
  - 29 Tartan (5)
  - 30 Graceful (7)
  - 31 Berie (5)
  - 32 Scatter (5)
- DOWN
- 2 Respond (5)
  - 3 Helplessness (7)
  - 5 Puckish (5)
  - 6 Content (7)
  - 7 War-horse (5)
  - 8 Oven (5)
  - 9 Separate (5)
  - 14 Comfort (4)
  - 16 Adroit (4)
  - 18 Confidential (7)
  - 20 Storm (7)
  - 21 Range (5)
  - 23 Revolt (5)
  - 24 Trivial (5)
  - 26 Viper (5)
  - 28 Depart (5)

WHERE TO GO

Notices in this feature are charged at NIS22.08 per line, including VAT. Inquiries every day 7:00 to 10:00 p.m. costs NIS22.08 per line, including VAT, per month.

JERUSALEM

Conducted Tours
GREEN UNIVERSITY. Tours of the Mount Scopus campus, in English, daily Sun-Thurs, 11 a.m. from Bronfman Reception Centre, Sherman Administration Bldg. Buses 4, 9, 23, 26, 28. For info, call 862215.

HAIFA
HADAHA. Visit the Hadassah installations, Chagall Windows. Tel. 02-416333, 02-776771.

TEL AVIV

TEL AVIV MUSEUM OF ART. Impressionist and Post-Impressionist art in the courtyard, Yacov Dorchin - Blockad Well, 26 monumental sculptures/Gilad Ophir, Cyclopean Walls/Shai Barkan Works 1995-The Museum Collections. Hours: Weekdays 10:00 a.m.-6 p.m. Tue, 10 a.m.-10 p.m. Fri, Sat, 10:00 a.m.-2:00 p.m. Art Education Center, closed for renovations, Tel. 6919155/67.

WIZO. To visit our projects call Tel Aviv 6923819; Jerusalem 256060; Haifa 388617.

HAIFA

WHAT'S ON IN HAIFA, dial 04-374253.

GENERAL ASSISTANCE

EMERGENCY PHARMACIES

Jerusalem: Center Pharm, 20 Yad Harutzim, 731475; Balsam, Salah e-Din, 727215; Shufat, Shufat Road, 810108; Dar Aldawa, Herod's Gate, 282058; Tel Aviv: Shufat, 28 Kfar Sava, 528-3731; Kupat Holim Clinic, 7-8 Amsterdam, 523-2383; Tel Aviv, Wednesday: Ben-Yehuda, 142 Ben-Yehuda, 522-3535; Tel midnight: Superpharm Ramat Aviv, 40 Shimon Zadek (near) Ramat Aviv, Ramat Aviv, 461114. Netanya: Ariela, 2 Salomon, 617838. Krayot areas: Moshim, 64 Moshe Golan; Massada, 30 Massada, 665066; Herzliya: Clal Pharm, Beit Merkazim, 6 Masad (near Sderot Hagolim), Herzliya Pinhas, 568472, 568407. Open 9 a.m. to midnight. Upper Mazza: Clal Pharm, Lev Ha'ir Mail, 570468. Open 9 a.m. to 10 p.m.

DUTY HOSPITALS

Jerusalem: Blum Hospital (internal, obstetrics, pediatrics, surgery, ENT); Hadassah Ein Karem (orthopedics, pediatrics, ophthalmology). Tel Aviv: Tel Aviv Medical Center (pediatrics, internal, surgery). Netanya: Lamed.

POLICE

FIRE

FIRST AID

Magen David Adom
In emergencies dial 101 (Hebrew) or 911 (English) in most of the country. In addition:
Ashdod 551332 Kfar Sava 902222
Ashdod 551332 Nahariya 912233
Be'er Sheva 274977 Netanya 804444
Be'er Sheva 527122 Petah Tikva 521111
Dan Region 579233 Rehovot 451333
Elor 334444 Rishon 964233
Haifa 512233 Sderot 323333
Jerusalem 321332 Tel Aviv 724411
Karmel 985444 Tiberias 724444
* Mobile Intensive Care Unit (MICU) service in the west, around the clock.
Medical help for tourists (in English)
The National Poison Control Center at Rambam Hospital 04-525205, for emergency calls 24 hours a day, for information in case of poisoning.
Eran - Emotional First Aid. Jerusalem 510303, Tel Aviv 5491111 (children), youth 591113, Haifa 672223, Beer Sheva 281123, Netanya 625110, Karmel 3988410, Kfar Sava 974555, Hadera 345735.
WIZO has facilities for battered women 02-651411, 02-548113 (also in Russian), 07-376310, 08-550508 (also in Amharic).
Rape Crisis Center (24 hours), Tel Aviv 5234819, 5449191 (men), Jerusalem 265898, Haifa 680111, Eilat 31577.

Patients hit hard by hospital workers' strike

JUDY SIEGEL

PATIENTS at 30 state hospitals quickly felt the absence of 8,000 striking cleaning workers and clerks yesterday, as food and clean laundry became precious commodities.

The Health Ministry and Civil Service Commission applied for court orders against the strikers late last night, saying the hospitals cannot function long under these emergency conditions. But it was not known if and when they would be issued.

The union launched the open-ended strike to protest against the government's refusal to implement recommendations of the Padah Committee for equalizing salary scales in Kupat Holim Clalit and government hospitals.

Outpatient clinics and diagnostic institutes in the hospitals were closed, and all but emergency operations were canceled. Although hospital managements had prepared a large amount of sterile implements and clean laundry, supplies began to run out. The kitchens were nearly closed down, and patients had to depend on relatives and friends to provide food. There was no one to clean the toilets and no one answered the switchboards.

Strike committees were set up in each of the affected hospitals to decide which patients were emergency cases. The effects of the strike were lessened in oncology, dialysis, obstetrics, intensive care, and neonatal departments.

The Finance Ministry spokeswoman said the ministry was surprised by the strike, because the hospital workers had received "significant wage increases — among the highest in the public sector" after they promised to maintain industrial peace. The ministry will not cave in and grant anything more than that agreed upon in the latest collective agreement, the spokeswoman said.

The Treasury strongly criticized the Histadrut trade union section for authorizing the strike, and called on the strikers to return to work.

Flight disruptions indefinitely postponed

MICHAEL YUDELMAN

PLANS for wide-scale flight disruptions at Ben-Gurion Airport were suspended yesterday afternoon, after a meeting between striking Flight Services workers and the company's management.

The Histadrut canceled the planned strike actions and said the airport workers would decide on their next moves today, depending on the outcome of talks convened after the intervention of Energy Minister Gonen Segev.

Meanwhile, the strike by Flight Services, the company which refuels airplanes, continues due to the management's ongoing refusal to renew the wage agreement which expired six years ago.

Four airplanes from CIS states are stuck at Ben-Gurion without fuel, not having succeeded, as other airlines did, to refuel at airports en route to Israel.

The deadlock between Flight Services management and the workers was broken by Segev yesterday, when he invited representatives of both sides to his office. At the meeting, the disputing sides agreed to meet Histadrut Trade Union Section chairman MK Amir Peretz later today evening in an effort to start negotiations to solve the crisis.

The admitting office at Wolfson Hospital in Holon stands empty yesterday, as administrative and maintenance workers in government hospitals began an open-ended strike for higher wages. (Aron Ron/Israel Sun)

Hammer's referendum proposal leaves coalition, opposition cold

SARAH HONG

THE consensus within both the coalition and opposition yesterday was that the proposal by National Religious Party leader Ze'ev Hammer to conduct a unilateral referendum on Oslo 2 is a virtual non-starter.

Labor Party Secretary-General Nissim Zivli stressed that, "If Hammer persists with his notion, then we will tell our supporters to shun the referendum and then it will be nothing more than a meaningless desperate gesture, like a lot of what the right wing has been doing lately."

Hammer argued that he "would like the government to join us in sponsoring this referendum. If the idea is fine for the Golan, what makes it so abhorrent for the Oslo-2 pact?"

"But if the government refuses to call a referendum, then it should be conducted despite it," he said. "I can understand the plain fear of the government side to hear the verdict of the nation which the government well senses is not with it. The government, after all, knows better than anybody that the public in 1992 did not vote for anything like the policies it later adopted."

The issue in question, Hammer asserted, "is one of the most divisive the nation has ever known since independence and the issue is furthermore a vital issue of survival. A government which is able to stay in power by the slightest possible majority — parts of which come from votes stolen from the national camp, whose supporters clearly took the opposite stand to the government's — cannot lead so decisive a historic process."

But Zivli disputed Hammer's contentions. "This government was elected without the thinnest shadow of a doubt to carry out precisely the policies it is now putting into effect. No one was misled in the 1992 elections. Everything was spelled out in the clearest way, black on white."

"Moreover, the Oslo agreement was ratified by the Knesset and Oslo 2 is merely an implementation of what was already approved. Hammer cannot engage in democracy delus and decide when and over what issue the nation will be consulted," Zivli said.

Communications Minister Shulamit Aloni was blunter: "This is an undemocratic move by people who have nothing but contempt for democracy."

Knesset Speaker Shevah Weiss of Labor also came out against Hammer's proposal, which he termed "unfortunate. I will try to talk Ze'ev out of it. A referendum can only be held if the Knesset calls it, and even then, I have reservations about the entire system, which is not practiced in the Anglo-Saxon world."

In the opposition the idea was not enthusiastically embraced either. Former prime minister Yitzhak Shamir said he views Hammer's proposal as "mostly another demonstration against this disastrous government. And demonstrations against this government should continue."

Tsomet leader Rafael Eitan argued that, "All talk of a referendum on any issue is nonsense. The best referendum is early elections. The way this government is leading us down the abyss, the quicker early elections are called, the less damage this catastrophic government can still do."

AROUND THE WORLD

	C	F	W	C	F
Amsterdam	11	52	22	72	cloudy
Berlin	10	50	21	70	cloudy
Buenos Aires	15	59	28	82	cloudy
Calcutta	28	82	32	90	cloudy
Chicago	10	50	18	64	cloudy
Hong Kong	28	82	32	90	cloudy
London	10	50	21	70	cloudy
Los Angeles	18	64	22	72	cloudy
Manila	28	82	32	90	cloudy
Medan	28	82	32	90	cloudy
Moscow	10	50	21	70	cloudy
New York	10	50	21	70	cloudy
Paris	10	50	21	70	cloudy

Winning cards

In yesterday's Mifal Hapais daily Chance card draw, the lucky cards were the 10 of spades, 10 of hearts, queen of diamonds, and ace of clubs.

Na'amat: NII holding back funds from single-parent families

MICHAEL YUDELMAN

NA'AMAT yesterday accused the National Insurance Institution of depriving single-parent families with more than one child of the study grant, it said. The NII is "suspicious" that they are not really single-parent families.

In a letter to Labor and Social Affairs Minister Ora Namir and NII Director-General Yossi Tamir, Na'amat head Ofra Friedman demanded the NII pay the study grant immediately to all single-parent families who have not received it.

Friedman said the study grant — NIS 757 for each child between six and 11 and NIS 421 to each child up to 14 — was paid a month ago only to single-parent families with one child.

She blasted the NII for "casting doubt on thousands of single-parent families with two and more children on the basis of a few irregular cases, and forcing them to sign a special declaration form," which is holding up the payments.

Friedman also complained that the NII denies single-mother status to any mother whose boyfriend or live-in partner is not the father of her children.

Friedman stated that most single-parent families face financial difficulties and are counting on the study grant to make up the money spent at the beginning of the school year.

The NII rejected Friedman's charges as "complete nonsense." Tamir noted that the study grant was expanded this year to include single-parent families not defined as such by law, such as women whose husbands left them without divorce and wives of prisoners.

Jordan parliament says freedom regressing

AMMAN (Reuters) — A Jordanian parliamentary report released this week said that freedoms had regressed since the kingdom made peace with Israel last October, and urged the government to show more tolerance to the opposition.

The government rejected the charges, contained in a report from parliament's committee on civil liberties, and said it is committed to the democracy move launched after 1989 price riots. But it warned of limits.

"The historic turning point the country is witnessing, the state of polarization in society after the signing of the peace treaty and the accompanying stressful situation has visibly affected the ceiling of public freedoms," said the 10-page report, which was endorsed by most of the 80-seat lower house.

Many Jordanians, especially those of Palestinian origin, remain hostile to Israel, and economic benefits from peace have so far been minimal.

The Islamic-led opposition, nearly a third of parliament, accused the government of making mass arrests and holding suspects for long periods without charge — a key criticism also made by international human rights groups.

They criticized the government for stripping many Palestinians of Jordanian citizenship, saying it harmed Jordan's national unity and discouraged Palestinian investment.

Amman began replacing Palestinians' five-year passports with two-year "temporary" passports that do not convey citizenship after a 1988 decision to cut administrative and legal ties with West Bank.

'Dr. Barbie' brings a smile to the face of a patient on the oncological ward of Dana Children's Hospital in Tel Aviv yesterday. During the visit, sponsored by Clal Marketing and the Israel Cancer Association, the children got Dr. Barbie coloring books and other gifts. (Aron Ron/Israel Sun)

STUDY THE GREAT CODE OF JEWISH LAW

Rabbi Emanuel Quint's unprecedented restatement of the Hoshen Hamishpat section in the Shulhan Aruch brings fresh insight, modern scholarship and succinct explication to this brilliant halachic work.

Readers of this series may be surprised to discover that such a meticulous — yet not overly religious — system comes into the category of Jewish law.

Forewords by Rabbi Adin Steinsaltz and Dr. Norman Lamm. Hardcover.

JP Price NIS 99.00 per volume

NIS 269.00 for any 3 volumes

For door to door delivery, please add NIS 15 per volume (free when ordering all 6 volumes).

To: Books, The Jerusalem Post, P.O. Box 81, Jerusalem 91000

Please send me A Restatement of Rabbinic Civil Law:

Vol. I Laws of Judges and Evidence, 318 pp

Vol. II Laws of Loans, 352 pp

Vol. III Laws of Pledging, 255 pp

Vol. IV Laws of Collection; Mortgage; Agency; Guarantee; and Presumption of Ownership of Personality, 349 pp

Vol. V Laws of Presumption of Ownership of Personality; Injuries to Neighbors; Joint Ownership of Property; and Partition of Realty, 305 pp

Vol. VI Laws of Partnerships; Agents; Sales; Acquisition of Personality, 372 pp

Enclosed is my check, payable to The Jerusalem Post or credit card details for NIS 99.00 per volume or NIS 269.00 for any three:

☐ Visa ☐ Isracard ☐ Diners

CC No. _____ Exp. _____

Name _____

Address _____

City _____ Code _____

Tel. _____ JD No. _____

Signature _____

The 1996 edition brings you up to date on the good, the bad and the awful... from all time greats to unforgettable duds. More than 19,000 A-Z rated entries, 300 new films, complete with summary, director, stars and a lot more. A must for every video library and for cable movie selections. Softcover, 1582 pp. Signet.

JP Price NIS 36.00 each.

To: Books, The Jerusalem Post, P.O. Box 81, Jerusalem 91000. Tel. 02-241282.

Please send me Maltin's

Movie and Video Guide

1996. Enclosed is my check for NIS 36 payable to The Jerusalem Post. Credit card orders accepted by phone.

Name _____

Address _____

City _____

Code _____

Tel. (day) _____

HaZorfim

A Timeless Art Of Silver

Tel-Aviv, 75 Kibbutz Galuyot St., Tel. 05-6818125 Tel-Aviv, 1 Allenby St., Opera Tower, Tel. 05-5101666 Bnei-Brak, 86 Rabbi Akiva St., Tel. 05-5705498
Petah-Tikva, 1 Shapir St., Tel. 05-9546752 Jerusalem, 5 Kanfei Nebarim St., Shalim Center, Givat Shaul, Tel. 02-6514026
Jerusalem, 5 Ya'akov Meir St., Gola, Tel. 02-585853 Netanya, 15 Remez St. Tel. 09-616152

هتدائن الاصل